German War No. 2
More Irish War
Grownup Children
Our Intellectual "Betters"

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

"Armies of the Allies will march into Germany today." Cities will be occupied, revenues confiscated, whatever can be taken will be taken, to make up the amount the Allies want and that Germany says she cannot pay. More wars in that program.

Two days ago you read that General Cumming, of the British forces, had been murdered by Sinn Feiners. This morning you read that the Mayor of Limerick and the former Mayor of Limerick are murdered in their beds as "reprisal" for Cumming's killing.

Cumming when killed was dressed, surrounded by soldiers. Clancy, the Limerick Mayor, was in bed; so was his wife, also shot. The "honors of war," so to speak, would seem to be on the side of the Sinn Feiners.

Pretty photographs that come from Palm Beach show in detail a "children's party by grown-ups." A man and a full grown woman sit in a box filled with sand, each with a little tin pail and a shovel, shoveling the sand, wearing little children's clothes and sox, with bare legs above, etc. What intellectual representatives of our better classes display themselves at Palm Beach!

That is the sort of thing that fills the "humble lower classes" with profound respect for their betters and makes those lower classes delight to work hard, give a full day's work, "liquidate wages," etc., to enable the "grownup children's parties" to be successful and frequent.

The chief of police of Sunbury, Pa., says ladies' skirts must come four inches below the knee. That is not a bad suggestion, but there is no need of any law. Women should wear heavy woolen stockings in Winter, light stockings in Summer, sensible low-heeled shoes always, bloomers, fastened just below the knee all the year round, and skirts to suit themselves. The length of the skirt will depend on the shape and more or less on the temperature of the ankles.

The main thing is to keep the short skirt, never go back to the dragging germ collectors.

Woman has achieved recently two kinds of freedom, one the ballot, giving freedom to her head, admitting her ability to think. The other the short skirt, giving freedom to her legs, admitting her ability to walk. Both kinds of freedom must be maintained.

We shall all be safer, the problem of disease will be solved, when men, at last, see the only living creatures on the earth. It will take time to kill all the others, from elephants to ultramicroscopic disease germs, so small that even the microscope can't see them.

A hunting party has just left London, not to shoot tigers, trap gorillas or hunt the grizzly, but to find a certain fresh water snail in the West Indies. This snail develops a germ that attacks the intestines of human beings. You get the snail disease by drinking or even swimming in water inhabited by the snails.

The tse-tse fly spreads sleeping sickness, getting the germ from the mouth of the crocodile. Typhoid develops inside the horse. The mosquito carries malaria and yellow fever.

Man's painful task is to kill off all the little and big brother and sister animals that were with him in the ark and on the ark, keeping the earth exclusively for himself.

When that is done it will be a less picturesque but a safer planet, and perhaps, after a while, men will find as much excitement in study of the stars as they do now in chasing a fox or shooting a tiger from the back of an elephant.

Mr. John Nicholas Brown of Harvard, once called "richest boy in the world," now one of the richest young men, says he loves the poor and wants to spend twenty millions to help them.

What COULD and would you do if you loved the poor and had twenty millions to spend?

Would you buy clothes or food and thus give away the twenty millions? Would you just see many poor after the clothes were worn and the food eaten.

Would you say, "Education is the thing," distribute books? The poor would say, "We are too hungry to read or understand."

Would you go into politics and try to make a better government, thus giving the poor a better chance from childhood up? You would soon find that in politics you don't go far if you take the poor too seriously.

Would you start a newspaper and encourage people to think for themselves? That might be a good idea, but making a newspaper go isn't easy.

Mr. Nicholas Brown says he is too busy just now with his studies to attend to the thing in detail. What would you do NOW if you had the twenty millions?

Many Workers Lose Lives in Bombardment of Moscow

Paris, March 8.—Official dispatches received here saying the Bolsheviki admitted had been repulsed by the Soviet troops at both Petrograd and Moscow. The Moscow Railway is functioning normally.

London, March 8.—Several hundred persons were killed at Moscow when Soviet artillery massed in the hills near the city bombarded the workers' headquarters," said a Central News dispatch from Helsingfors this afternoon.

"In addition to the killed large numbers were wounded. The bombardment followed the declaration of a general strike on the part of the workers to enforce their demand for the creation of a constituent assembly.

"The strikers at Moscow are reported to number over 150,000 at present."

It is reported in Helsingfors that anti-Bolshevik insurgents and striking workmen have seized Odessa," said a Central News dispatch from Helsingfors this afternoon. The Mos-

TWO KILLED BY TRAIN IN PAWTUCKET

Pawtucket, R. I., March 8.—Two men were killed and a third seriously injured when they were struck by a Boston & Washington train on in Bridge, over the Blackstone River, near here today. The dead were Artur Martues and a man whose first name was thought to be Federioe, but whose last name was not learned. The third of the trio, all of whom were said to live in Attleboro, was Abilio Bordis, who was taken to the Rhode Island Hospital, Providence, suffering from a fractured right arm. The three men, bound to be bound for Pawtucket to seek work, were crossing the bridge from Central Falls, just as two trains appeared from opposite directions. They became confused and stepped in front of the Washington train.

KING'S FOE

Miss Annie Kennedy of Lawrence, who protested against acknowledging George V. as ruler of Ireland.

Lawrence, March 8.—Refusing to recognize King George V of England as her sovereign, Miss Annie Kennedy created a stir in Superior Court during naturalization proceedings.

She declared that she was a citizen of the Irish republic when it was announced that she must renounce her loyalty to the crown of England in order to become a citizen of this country.

"I tell you that Great Britain is not my country and I don't recognize King George as my king," she declared, "I was born in Ireland, and I am a citizen of the Irish Republic."

Just as Archie M. Frost, clerk of courts, was administering the oath of allegiance, the woman interrupted. Next to her were six other women who were taking the oath with right hands upraised. The courtroom was crowded. The court called her to the bench for a talk.

Judge Philip J. O'Connell told her the Irish republic had not been recognized by America and that she must renounce George V if she would become an American. Then she did and she took the official oath.

3 GERMAN CITIES TAKEN

CENTRES OF TEUTON INDUSTRY INVADED

Allied Troops Occupy Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort on the Rhine

By International News Service.

London, March 8.—Allied troops—French, British and Belgian — advanced on the Rhine today and occupied three important German industrial and coal mining cities—Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort.

Word was received from Cologne at 1 o'clock this afternoon that the military occupation of the three cities had been completed without incident. The Germans made no resistance, although sniping was reported from some districts.

United States troops took no part in the military operations. They remained within their old lines in the Coblenz district.

Dusseldorf was occupied by French, British and Belgian detachments.

Duisburg and Ruhrort were taken over by the French and Belgian troops. Cavalry, infantry and air forces all participated.

TO PRESERVE ORDER.

The president of the Dusseldorf Municipal Council issued a proclamation asking that order be maintained. There is a tense undercurrent of feeling, however.

A detachment of French cavalry reached Benderf, four miles above Coblenz, on the right bank of the Rhine, Monday night and demanded quarters for 600 troops. The Germans prepared barracks to accommodate a squadron.

The German delegates to the indemnity conference, headed by Dr. Walter Simons, the foreign minister.

Profits Won by Speculators in Ponzi Game Go to Those Who Lost

Ponzi winners, during the four months prior to August 9, when the erstwhile financial "wizard" was petitioned into bankruptcy, must contribute their profits for the benefit of the creditors, it was announced by the trustees today.

Those who received the full amount of the money they put into the Ponzi fiasco, while the run was in progress, also will be considered preferred creditors.

Those were the outstanding points made by J. A. Lowell of the Ponzi trustees today, following the notice sent to creditors that the receivers have filed a second report and account, and that the trustees have filed a petition for leave to sell assets and a petition for authority to compromise certain claims and suits, subject to the approval of the court.

These matters will be taken up at a meeting to be held in Cambridge, March 16, in the Probate Court of Middlesex County.

It is probable that, at the meeting, one question of a dividend will be taken up.

According to the trustees the bulk of the business activities of Ponzi occurred during the months which are included in the bankruptcy laws

Harding to Summon World Conference

Washington, March 8.—Every great nation in the world will shortly be invited by President Harding to participate in a single conference that will at once consider both the limitation of armaments and the organization of an international court of arbitral justice, it was learned today.

The call, it is expected, will be issued in time to permit the delegates to arrive in Washington about [illegible]

Heretofore it has been understood that the question of an international court or an association of nations to end war would be discussed at one conference and that of disarmament at another.

The two problems are now regarded by administration leaders as so indissolubly linked in the general plan the world deems that it is believed they can be considered simultaneously.

"NAVAL HOLIDAY" SOUGHT.

One important point can be authoritatively announced at this time. The United States will not be party to any plan of actual disarmament, but is ready to take the lead in bringing about limitation of armaments.

LYNN MAN FOUND DEAD IN YACHT CLUB ROOM

Doctor Thinks Lighted Gas Ate Up Oxygen in Confined Locker Space

Thomas Barrett, thirty-two years old, No. 78 Spring street, Lynn, was found dead on a couch in his locker room at the Volunteer Yacht Club on Washington street, Lynn, today.

Nathan Wiley, custodian of the club, was making his rounds of the clubhouse and, noticing an odor of gas coming from Barrett's room, he went in and found the man dead.

A physician was called and he said that the four lights in the small room were still burning when the man was discovered dead, and the doctor expressed the opinion that the four lighted gas jets consumed the oxygen in the small room.

Barrett was last seen Sunday afternoon as he was going into his room to lie down. The door was shut but unlocked. He was a leather worker. Two sisters survive him.

30 ABOARD VESSEL ON LOVELL'S ISLAND

Passengers on City of Columbus, From Savannah, for Boston, Believed Safe

The Savannah Line steamship City of Columbus ran aground off Lovell's Island early today with thirty passengers and a large cargo aboard.

The passengers will probably be transferred to another ship and taken to the mainland.

Five tugs responded to Captain L. G. Lucas's wireless call for help, and at high tide tried to pull her out of the mud and pebbles, into which she had run in the Winter's worst fog.

Another attempt will be made at high tide tonight. The eight tides are running a bit higher than at noontide.

The life-saving crew from Minot's Beach, Hull, is standing by, ready for any emergency. When the ship's S O S was received at Boston, word was immediately sent to the Hull lifesavers to join in the rescue.

The City of Columbus was bound for Boston from Savannah. The thick fog made accurate navigation impossible and one of the channel buoys was missed. At that the least dangerous spot on the island was struck. Sixty feet further and the steamship would have struck rocks and probably have ripped her bottom.

At high tide this morning the ship's water line stood ten feet above water. No leaks had been sprung, however.

Minnie Wilden, local agent for the Savannah Line, is in touch with the situation.

Captain Dalzell is familiar with Boston Harbor, having made many trips here on other Savannah Line steamers. He took formerly to command of the steamship City of Rome.

The City of Columbus was built at Chester, Penn., in 1906, and registers 5,441 tons gross. She is 377.5 feet long, 48 feet beam and 27 feet depth of hold.

HUNDREDS DIE AS SOVIET GUNS BOMBARD MOSCOW WORKERS

REPORTED THAT TROTZKY HAS BEEN MADE DICTATOR

cow. Soviet was reported to be sending troops to retake the city.

"The bombardment at Petrograd Monday was very severe," said a Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express. "It began at 6 o'clock in the morning with 25 shells dropping every minute. About 9 o'clock it weakened.

"There was intense fighting in the streets of Petrograd during which machine guns were used.

"Bolshevik soldiers are manning the frontier between Russia and Finland fearing assistance from Finnish 'Whites.'"

TROTZKY DICTATOR.

Leon Trotzky, minister of war in the Soviet government at Moscow, has been appointed military dictator of Russia, with unlimited powers to put down the counter revolutionary movements which have sprung up in various sections of the country, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Helsingfors today.

Trotzky is said to be on his way to Petrograd where the insurgents have been making their strongest fight against Soviet power.

Thirty-seven thousand soldiers and sailors are said to be marching upon Petrograd from the fortresse of Kronstadt. At last reports the fortress of Kronstadt was held by the "Whites" or anti-Bolsheviks.

Soviet troops that were ordered against the insurgent garrison of Kronstadt attempted to cross on the ice. The cruiser Petropavlosk, which is in the hands of the rebels, opened fire upon the Red troops, putting them to flight.

REPORT TWO REVOLTS.

"There are really two revolutions in progress against the Lenine-Trotzky regime," said a Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express.

"One has its centre at Petrograd and the other is directed from Moscow. The Petrograd revolt is a movement upon the part of the 'Right' political party, whose members are discontented with Soviet rule and are demanding freedom of speech and the press and the right of individual trade. Moderate Socialists and discontented workmen joined the rebels.

"The Moscow movement is being carried out by the 'Left' political party which is dissatisfied with the leadership of Lenine and Trotzky.

"It is impossible that the revolutionary movements now under way in Russia will succeed in overthrowing either Lenine or Trotzky. Those who look for the present revolution to be successful or for the early downfall of Bolshevism in Russia are likely to be disappointed."

The Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Helsingfors reported that the Soviet had offered far reaching concessions to the rebels.

The Petrograd Soviet has proposed peace negotiations to the Kronstadt insurgents. The insurgent leaders at the fortress said they were willing to receive a deputation if it was only 15 per cent. Communist in personnel.

"Part of Kronstadt and Lisynes are in flames," said another Helsingfors dispatch to the Daily Express this afternoon. "The garrison at Oranienbaum has joined the insurgents. The city of Petrograd and the forts on the outskirts have been under heavy bombardment. Trotzky and Kamenoff have arrived at Petrograd with flight artillery to reinforce the forts at Sestroretsk, Lisynos and Tarnovka."

Kerensky Goes to Russia to Lead

Paris, March 8.—Kerensky, one-time ruler of Russia, left Paris for Reval today, to personally assume command of the movement to overthrow the Soviets.

The details of the program under which Kerensky will work were drawn up by the Russian revolutionary committee in Paris in January. It has since been revised and approved by allied military and diplomatic chiefs.

"This is the beginning of the end for Lenine," Kerensky said. "Within six months Russia will not longer be a Communist State but a republic modelled on the American Declaration of Independence.

"The movement which began February 15 at Kronstadt is spreading throughout Russia like a forest fire. Insurgents in the Ukraine, the Northern Caucasus, the Crimea and in Western Siberia have revolted.

"My latest information is that Petrograd has been taken by revolting Red troops allied with the Kronstadt marines. It was captured Saturday night and the fighting is still going on on the outskirts.

"In the south the peasant army 100,000 strong, is marching from Kief to Moscow, commanded by General Boukharine, who was formerly second in comm and under General Wrangel.

"We are confident of support by the allied governments, to whom all plans for the counter revolution were submitted in January. Our committee in Paris today cabled Washington demanding the active aid of the American government, which can best be given in food supplies, medicines, bandages and chemicals."

FIRST THUNDER OF YEAR ROLLS OVER BOSTON

Electrical Disturbance Noted by Forecaster Smith; Cool Wave Thursday

Peals of thunder were heard early today in Boston and were recorded at the weather bureau, according to Forecaster Smith, who predicts warmer weather and occasional showers tonight and a drop in the temperature by Thursday.

His forecast was: "Occasional showers tonight and probably Wednesday; warmer tonight; increasing winds to southwest winds.

"There were loud thunder peals at 6:30 a. m., the first of the season," said Smith, as he examined the thunder registering instrument on top of the Federal Building. "People should not be led astray with the idea that this is Summer because of that fact, neither should they leave off their wraps and heavy underclothing, for it is going to be cold Thursday."

The weather is generally unsettled throughout the country and much rain has fallen. The thermometer is 24 below in sections of the Northwest and parts of Canada. It is 2 below at Wellington, N. D., and 76 above at Key West. At Greenville, Me., it is 26, and 40 at Nantucket. In Boston it was 39 at 8 a. m. today.

HARDING'S IDEA IS 'COURT OF NATIONS'

To Invite Major Powers to Send Delegates to Capital Before June 1

great powers, including the United States, will agree to cessation or restriction of the present race for naval supremacy, will be the first objective, although it is expected this government will insist upon completion of the 1916 naval building program.

Directors of the nation's naval policy, including Secretary Denby, are unanimously of the opinion that total disarmament cannot be achieved.

It is President Harding's plan that a new international association to promote peace shall be built around the proposed world court.

BELIEVE PLAN IS SAFE.

Administration leaders believe the United States can safely take the leadership in such an association, because it would not be a military alliance like the present league, but would preserve both the political integrity and actual sovereignty of this country.

President Harding is firmly of the belief that this country can thus assume leadership in a genuine and practical move for permanent peace. An agreement for actual limitation or reduction of armaments would, he believes, be an effective step toward removing the menace of future wars.

Congressional leaders who have been approached about the double conference believe that it is practical and that the other nations will accept the invitation when given.

WOMAN SAVED FROM RIVER BY SAILORS

After being rescued from Broad Canal, a tributary of the Charles River, near the First Street bridge, East Cambridge, early today, a woman said said to be Maria Rose of Joy street, West End, escaped from two men dressed in United States navy uniforms and disappeared.

The sailors declared they knew the woman and offered to escort her safely to her home.

The police of Cambridge are watching points along the Charles for fear she may make another attempt to commit suicide.

Shortly after midnight Charles Densbey, a drawtender employed by the city of Cambridge, was making his way home on Broad Canal, when he was startled by a woman's voice coming from the water.

After searching near the bank of the canal he found the woman flouncing around in the stream. He pulled her out and she became hysterical, telling him she was despondent and was mourning the loss of her children.

While trying to comfort the woman the two sailors came along.

Densbey reported the case to Patrolman Leo Dyer, of the Central Square station, who started after the trio. He met the two sailors near Kendall Square and when he questioned them, they said the woman had run through a back yard and escaped from them.

The police could find no trace of her.

Ryan appealed after being scored by Judge York as a menace to the community.

PONZI WINNERS MUST GIVE UP PROFITS

Money They Received to Go to Fund for Benefit of Creditors, Say Trustees as these in which claims can be collected.

GAVE UP MONEY.

Several winners have surrendered their winnings, and it is intimated that court action will be taken against those who hold back.

"Our contention," said Mr. Lowell today, "is that the profits for the four months prior to August 2 last, should be divided among the general fund. Our work here is to get as much money as possible for the innocent victims. We believe that everyone should do his share and no more.

"This is a public matter, and different from the ordinary bankruptcy proceedings. If we had the power to go out and collect with a free hand all the profits and the money paid back by Ponzi after the run, we would have a fund for a substantial dividend.

FUNDS TIED UP.

"The immediate situation is that the largest part of the Ponzi assets are tied up in the Hanover Trust Company in the million and a half dollar certificate of deposit which Ponzi had there. We cannot pay any dividend of moment until the hanover Trust settles up. When that is paid we will be able to pay a dividend of 20 to 25 per cent.

"Our position in regard to those who were refunded their money is that they should be classed as preferred creditors.

"When Ponzi stopped taking deposits, he ceased paying their invested money. Others were not. These, we believe, come under preferred claims.

"With regard to these we believe they should refund a proportion of the money they withdrew during that time, for the benefit of the creditors.

"Notices have been sent out to Ponzi winners to this effect."

CAPTAIN SULLIVAN ASSAILS PEMBERTON SQUARE 'SOFT PEDAL'

'SHELVED' FOR DOING DUTY AND UPHOLDING OATH, HE SAYS

Captain James P. Sullivan, who was transferred from City Hall avenue station to Police Headquarters, and who promptly asked to be retired on half pay, declares that he was demoted for doing his duty and a younger man put in his place to camouflage an issue that is known to business men in the downtown section.

He declares that his activity in running down and preferring charges against members of the new police force incurred the displeasure of the powers-that-be at headquarters and that while at one time he was regarded by Commissioner Curtis as the "fair, haired boy," he later became persona non grata.

Police Commissioner Curtis, when questioned regarding the statements of Captain Sullivan, made the following comment:

"When I assumed the duties of police commissioner I made an address to the captains and among other things I stated: 'Transfers in the department will be made from time to time without reason therefore being given.

"It will not always mean that the ones transferred have committed any fault. If they are for faults those transferred will know it, and I hope be wise enough to improve their methods. If they are not for faults they will also realize it."

Insisting that he has been treated shamefully for obeying the dictates of his conscience in living up to the spirit and letter of the oath he took when he became a member of the force thirty-five years ago, Captain Sullivan points to his record as a private in the ranks and later as "skipper" in charge of Division 2, City Hall avenue, for years.

He charges that there are a large percentage of "cosey" officers and men in the department who smother their conscience and throw smoke screens around the truth to stand in well with the powers that be at headquarters. He says these men are given soft berths with the understanding that they keep quiet and say nothing if matters affecting the new police force creep into the court.

"I'm willing to let the business men in the City Hall division judge me by my record of achievements and will stand or fall on their answer," said Captain Sullivan, when interviewed at his home in Roxbury.

"HOUNDED FOR DOING DUTY."

"I was hounded because I did my duty as a sworn officer of the law. Every man in Station 2 knows that to be a fact. I know the police business. Those responsible for my demotion do not. I believed that the rich crooks who stole, whether in civilian clothes or a uniform, should be prosecuted as well as the poor Wretch who did not know enough.

"I got in bad when I announced at police headquarters that a chief was appointed on the force and had been assigned to my division; that if the man was to remain in the city he were better that he be put on the traffic squad where all he would have to do was to put his hands up and direct people to cross the street when vehicles were standing.

"I insisted that the policeman I mentioned should not be allowed to patrol a beat in the business section.

"Despite my warning, the man was allowed to patrol a beat in the business section. Then I began to receive complaints from business houses about their places being entered and goods taken. I got busy and had the sergeants under me keep close watch. Still the breaks were reported. Sergeants came on some uniformed men in a business place possessing over goods. Asked why they were in the store the uniformed men, men of the force were there and they found the door opened and entered in search of burglars.

FOUND OFFICER STEALING.

"Our investigation continued and we finally found a policeman plying his old-time profession, that of burglar. He involved others. The matter crept very young man. I was between the devil and the deep sea. I was humiliated. I consulted the men and reported the matter to police headquarters. A stenographer took down the testimony. The effect of it was startling. What was I to do? As captain of the division I demanded action. The men were summoned before the grand jury. So was I.

"I was sworn to tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. I lived up to my oath. The stenographic report of the testimony of the men charged with the offences figured in my testimony. As a result that report had to be produced. From that time on instead of being the 'fair-haired boy' I became persona non grata at headquarters.

"They do not want an officer in charge of men who is going after the culprits in uniform. I did my duty as I saw it. Those men in uniform took action in order to protect the city and preserve law and order. When they forgot their oath of duty and their obligations to the public they became, in my opinion, a greater menace than the ordinary individual who may break the law.

"And they were bigger cowards, because a man who uses his position to shield him and becomes a thief is not a fit member of society and certainly should not be permitted to remain on the people's police force. Just imagine, when I located men in this division who had stolen property in their possession, I was told by them that they had received the goods as presents from another officer.

MADE MEN CONFEDERATES.

"This officer said to these men, 'Here's a pair of silk stockings for your best girl.' At least that's what they told me. In that way the officer who was the thief got something on the officers with whom he shared the loot. Then, when the officers met, and the one who gave them the articles suggested they go into a store and get more loot, they became his confederates in breaking and entering and larceny.

"When these conditions first came to my attention I secured the officers' names. I reported the matter. I was asked what I wanted done with the offenders. I suggested that they be put through the regular course of investigation by the department.

"The officer squealed to the district attorney and in that way it got out that there were thieves in my division. There was I between the devil and the deep sea. We had a new police force. There had been much agitation. It was a delicate matter to criticise the new department, but after I reflected on the matter I concluded that my first duty was to the public.

"It had become public gossip that there were fifteen or twenty officers in my station who were reported to be involved in scandal and it was my duty to probe matters. Innocent men in my division were shadowed by the odium. Something had to be done. Fortunately most of them came out clean.

"I would like to have continued on the force until I had completed thirty-five years' service. That anniversary was close at hand—June 16, 1921. I'm willing to leave the newspaper man, who know my work in the department, and the business men, who know these places I protected by judgment on my case. I have been awfully wounded. I'm willing, besides by the verdict of the newspaper men and the business men in my district.

"I accepted the appointment as a soldier, and went to police headquarters to carry out my duties. I am in bad, back room a humiliated man. I come from a race that believes in service and duty. The mayor, Captain Cain, who recently passed away and I met in the room where I waited, haunted me. It was torture. I decided on the spur of the moment. I took the humiliation and retired. I said good night to the job. They don't shelve me like this for no cause.

"That disguise, and the fact that I was suffering from a heavy cold contracted during the police strike, caused me to make up my mind. I served one night on the headquarters' job. That was all.

"There are two kinds of policemen. One is known as the 'cosy' fellow, who watches and follows the weather vane, and the other fellow who has his principles and sticks to them.

"The first type serves himself and not the public. Through fear of his job and his superior he persecutes the little fellows and lets the big fellows alone. The second type does his duty, no matter who the consequences. All law-breakers look alike to him.

FRIEND OF OLD MEN.

"I always have been a friend of the older men with families who went out on strike and who were victims of circumstance. There were some 'dubs' among those who were enlisted. I've helped many as best I could. I'll tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. I lived up to my oath. The stenographic report of the testimony of the men charged with the offences figured in my testimony. As a result that report had to be produced. From that time on instead of being the 'fair-haired boy' I became persona non grata at headquarters.

ALLIED TROOPS TAKE 3 CITIES ON RHINE

Occupy Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort to Collect Indemnity

left for home this afternoon. All were in civilian dress, even General von Boeckle, who had appeared at yesterday's sessions in full dress uniform with a long sword at his belt.

There was much but lifting and bowing on the platform of Victoria station while the German party waiting for their train. Dr. Simons said he thought that he would be back in London in a few weeks and he was confident the conferences would be reopened.

Ruhrort, which will be held by the French and Belgians, is a city of 41,000 and is the largest river harbor in the German empire.

DUSSELDORF SHIP PORT.

Duisberg, a city of 229,000, is on the opposite side of the Ruhr river from Ruhrport, at the junction of That river with the Rhine. Immense coal exports have always been made from here. One of Duisberg's claims to world fame is that it is the site of the monument erected to Mercator (Gerhard Kremer) the geographer, who died there.

Duesseldorf is the largest of the three cities whose occupation is announced today. It is a city of 359,000 and is also on the Rhine, just a few miles north of Cologne. It is also a coal shipping port.

"The occupation of the three coal shipping centres will give the Allies complete control of the coal output of the famous Ruhr district, where millions of tons are mined monthly.

The first French troops entered Dusseldorf at 7:50. There were no untoward incidents. Big crowds gathered in the streets and watched soldiers planting batteries of artillery before the town and all the important squares. The bridges were put under heavy guards.

The advancing French troops were supported with light artillery and machine guns and were accompanied by two squadrons of airmen. On account of the absence of German troops from the neutral zone no opposition was encountered, although there was some sniping. Belgian troops were the first to move into Dusseldorf. A detachment of Belgian armed by mistakenly occupied the centre of the Dusseldorf bridge spanning the Rhine and stopped all traffic.

London Press Sees Triumph of France

London, March 8. — Practically all British newspapers today commented favorably upon the decision of the allies to give Germany sterner treatment. However, all were not united in a belief that the results from the allied advance on the Rhine would prove satisfactory.

The Daily Herald, Organ of the Labor party, describes "Great Britain's surrender to the French, which will lead to a crash from which new revolution will arise."

The Daily News called it "A triumph for the French policy of revenge."

This newspaper added: "Marshal Foch, before many months have passed, will move too easily it was a march to perdition."

The Daily Express praises the decision of Boulogne among the allies, but acknowledges that it has misgivings about the future now that the allied troops have advanced.

"The point must be grasped that this was not solely a disagreement about money," said the Chronicle. "It was an attempt to undo all the good that has been achieved in general condition to the city registrar. The Mayor will attempt to secure work for some of these men by running through the City Council two orders for the relaying of water mains to the amount of $10,000 and the other for $75,000. The unemployment situation in Woburn is serious.

TREBLE GUARD OF U. S. TROOPS IN PANAMA

Protect Residence of President Porras as Feeling Runs High in Capital

By International News Service.

Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, March 8.—A more favorable situation existed along the Panama-Costa Rica frontier today, and news was received here that the Costa Rican troops who had crossed into Panama territory were retiring across the Sixaola river, which was the frontier fixed by the White boundary award.

Feeling is running very high in Panama City and the guard of United States troops around the official residence of President Porras has been trebled. A mass meeting was held last night when speakers protested against mediation by the United States upon the basis of the White award.

Sixty municipal councils throughout the republic have sent protests of similar nature to the government. All were turned over to the national assembly and no response to serve formal notice upon President Porras not to accept American mediation, unless it were upon the principle of the Loubet award, which gave Panama more territory than the White award.

A rumor was circulated that another fight had taken place between the Panamans holding the village of Coto and Costa Ricans, but it proved untrue. What happened was that the Panamans rounded up about 100 Costa Rican stragglers, making prisoners of them. The captives included three colonels and a major.

An internment camp for "war prisoners" has been established on Taboga Island.

MAN FREED BY COURT HELD ON NEW CHARGE

Gibson of the state highway department, charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated, and pleading in Dracut last August with another machine, injuring two women.

MUTINY, MURDER HANGING MARK SHIP'S CRUISE

Officers of Polar Bear Were Forced to Repel Crew's Attacks With Revolvers

New York, March 8.—Mutiny, murder, man hunts, shots in the dead of night, hangings and all the thrills contained in the log of the good ship Polar Bear from Hamburg last week, United States District Attorney Leroy Ross of Brooklyn, acting on information contained in an anonymous letter, summoned Captain George Lunde and Chief Officer Olaf Atkinson of the Polar Bear to explain why certain items of her cargo were not placed on the manifest.

Captain Lunde said the explanation was simple, and then he unfolded the tale of the row, with all the thrills of the screen.

The Polar Bear, a 2,600 ton Shipping Board vessel, left Norfolk in September, his story runs. It was bound for Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, Hamburg and New York. Nearly all of the forty-four members of the crew were Finlanders. The trouble started on the first day out.

Lunde and Atkinson did not tamper with the trouble makers. Dissatisfaction spread and when St. Thomas was reached only a mate was landed.

Late one night, while the ship was at anchor, about thirty members of the crew armed with clubs, clubs and monkey wrenches, made a concerted attack on the quarters of Lunde and Atkinson. The officers, armed with revolvers stood them off. Under the leadership of the crew, William Doherty and William Donahue, who from then on start aided and abetted by the mate, was captain and the chief officer, sought to go to their rescue.

"Stick it out, can, we're with you," shouted Doherty. He no sooner uttered the words than a knife whistled through the night, lodging in his heart. He dropped dead. Donahue was severely injured by another knife, losing an eye.

Enos Gonzales and Jose Fonseca, firemen and leaders of the mutiny, jumped overboard and swam ashore. They were captured later, by United States marines, tried, found guilty of murder and hanged.

At Buenos Ayres Lunde signed a new crew, but trouble continued on the voyage from Buenos Ayres to Hamburg. Either captain or chief officer stood watch with drawn revolvers.

"I've sailed seven seas, but never before have I been up against such hard luck," said Captain Lunde. "It was worse than any fiction story I ever read of the sea. I'm glad to be back alive."

BRIGHTWELL TO GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company Case Delayed by Counsel's Absence

Trial of Charles M. Brightwell, Mrs. Brightwell and twelve officers or agents of the exploded Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company will begin tomorrow in Superior Criminal Court.

The trial was to start today. The defendants were on hand, but the counsel had to appear in Supreme Court, so the case was put over by Judge Fox.

When counsel gathered for the expected opening of the case it developed that for the first time in many years there was no representative of the district attorney's office present to try a criminal case.

This was an echo of the conflict between District Attorney Allen and District Attorney Pelletier. It was Mr. Allen or his subordinates who secured the indictments.

It was indicated today that counsel for the defendants would make a fight tomorrow to have the larceny and conspiracy indictments against the fourteen defendants quashed.

This action will be based principally on the charge that Assistant Attorney-General Jarvis was on the Grand Jury room when they were indicted and on the contention that he had no right there.

There are sixteen indictments against the defendants, held on 132 counts.

Beside Brightwell and Mrs. Brightwell, the defendants are Arthur Irwin, Arthur Irwin, W. B. Campbell, Raymond N. Meyers, Frank Fenton, Charles Frederick Meyers, John Rock, David S. Cummings, Arthur Wiswell, W. H. Rundlett, Frank Cooper and Lucien C. Cooper.

The Title Test, as has been explained, is based upon the titles of Motion Picture Plays.

A total of 60 pictures will be printed—No. 10 appears today—each WITHOUT A TITLE.

Readers of the associated newspapers are requested to WRITE A TITLE for each picture.

Each of the Test Pictures represents the title of a Movie Play. Not a scene from the movie play, but the TITLE of a movie play. Not an "imaginary" movie play, but a movie play which has been produced in the United States.

There is ONE, and only one, CORRECT title for each picture.

That correct title will be printed at the same time as the Test Picture to which it belongs.

TITLES ALL IN LIST.

On the Picture Page today, by way of illustration, are the titles of twenty or eighty movie plays. One of these titles is the correct title of today's Test Picture. The CORRECT title will fit the Test Picture which appears with it better than any other title on the list. There can be no mistake about this. ONE TITLE IN THE LIST FITS THE TEST PICTURE ABOVE IT BETTER THAN ANY OTHER TITLE IN THE SAME LIST.

Now, as you will see by the second paragraph of the rules, you MUST keep in touch with the $5,000 Title Test from day to day. The one sure way to do it is by placing an order for the associated newspapers, Boston American AND Boston Sunday Advertiser, for the duration of the Test. Tell the newsdealer you will want both papers REGULARLY for the duration of the Test.

ALL THERE IS TO DO.

It is not necessary to sign or write anything in order to take part. You do not have to "enroll." Beyond the small cost of the best and the best Sunday newspaper in New England you pay no "fee." All you have to do is select the Test Pictures from day to day, until you have the entire 60, write your Title and—by the end of the Test—send them in in accordance with instructions which will appear later. SEND IN NO PICTURES UNTIL THE END OF THE TEST!

Please read the Rules, on the Picture Page. If your than have any questions to ask, drop a line to Movie Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass.

PALACE OF VERSAILLES CRUMBLING TO DECAY

Paris, March 8.—Unless a large sum is immediately appropriated for reconstruction work, the Versailles and Trianon Palaces will soon crumble into ruins, is the substance of a report by Pierre Ramail, French Deputy, who has made an exhaustive study of the condition of the two chateaus. Dozens of broken windows have not been repaired since the war, statues in the parks have been mutilated, priceless cornices are being permitted to crumble off, the fountains, considered the finest in the world, are in a state of disrepair, and the famous stables built by Marie Antoinette are open to the weather.

FIRES TWO SHOTS IN SCOLLAY SQUARE FIGHT

More than 1,000 persons were attracted by the firing of two shots at Hanover street and Scollay square. Your police officers on duty nearby rushed to the scene. A man was taken into custody and he told the police he fired the shots in the air because three other men with whom he had an argument commenced to punch him. He said he fired to attract police aid. Officers are investigating his story. His name was not given out as he is being held by the police only as being a suspicious person.

FREE PRESS CRIPPLED BY DECISION, SAYS HAPGOOD

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Editorial Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, March 8.—The Supreme Court of the United States today handed out a severe blow to freedom of the press. The case was the Milwaukee Leader against Burleson. It was one of the most important decisions ever rendered. It confirmed the postmaster-general's claim to complete censorship, apparently in peace as well as in war, and on all sorts of subjects. It brought out most vehement dissents from Justices Holmes and Brandeis.

These two justices have stood together against the extreme assaults on liberty induced by the psychology of war. Justice Holmes today celebrates his eightieth birthday. Some of his most powerful opinions in defense of liberty have been delivered in the last few years. He fought in the Civil War. On the anniversary of the battle of Antietam, September 16, every year, the chief justice presents him with a rose. In that battle Justice Holmes was wounded while facing the regiment in which Chief Justice White was serving in the Southern army.

Norman Hapgood

Justice Holmes Accuses Court of Quibble

The most reactionary opinions of the Court are written by Justice McReynolds. When Justice Brandeis launched into his vigorous dissent today Justice McReynolds was so angry that he marched out of the court and waited until Justice Brandeis had finished. He has done the same thing before on dissents by Justice Brandeis. Once when Justice McReynolds was delivering an opinion Justice Clarke left the room, not intending any discourtesy, and Justice McReynolds was so offended that he would not to speak to him for months. Justice Holmes' opinion was a short but very feeling agreement with the longer opinion of Justice Brandeis. Justice Holmes accused the majority of a "quibble." Except by a quibble, he declared, the powers claimed for the Postmaster-General could not be found in the statutes. "The United States can give up its postoffice," he said, "whenever it sees fit, but as long as it continues to control it is entitled to free speech that there be no arbitrary discrimination. The power claimed by the Postmaster-General interferes with every sacred right. It is unjustified by the statutes and it is a direct attack on the freedom which even during the war Congress refused to infringe." Congress during the war refused to grant the powers he worked out by implication.

Case Not Peculiar to War, Says Brandeis

The Postmaster-General based his charges not only on extracts from the newspapers, but on the opinions of various citizens in Milwaukee, taken in secret session by employes of the Postoffice Department, that the tendency and character of the Leader were such as to interfere with the prosecution of the war.

A week ago Justice Clarke vehemently defended the constitutional right of a bootlegger not to lose a pint of whiskey on the wrong warrant. That was under Amendment 4 to the Constitution. The amendments violated by yesterday's decision, according to Justice Brandeis, are numbers 5, 6, 7 and 8.

Justice Brandeis began by showing that this case presents no questions peculiar to war. It is important because what we decide may determine in large measure whether in time of peace our press shall be free.

The Postmaster-General, the Justice pointed out, denied newspaper postal rates to the Leader because he did not like its opinions. But if the authority he claims exists he could use it on a whole tribe of subversia. Decency is one test; libel, another; urging to violence another; lotteries another; advertising liquor, another. He has a right to suppress a particular issue for infringing the law on any of these points. What he claims is to decide that the publication is sure to go on committing the same evil so he can kill it by withdrawing the second class privileges.

Cites Famous Case of Kreutzer Sonata

Justice Brandeis first shows that no statute confers this power. Then he shows that until now the opposite law was definitely accepted. In 1890 Tolstoi's book, "Kreutzer Sonata," was excluded from the mails because the Postmaster-General's employes or he himself thought it was indecent. When this was followed, however, by an attempt to prevent serial publication in a newspaper President Harrison's Attorney-General declared such a step illegal, as only those issues could be suppressed which contained the indecent matter. Under President Roosevelt a similar decision was made.

Justice Brandeis went on: "If such power were possessed by the Postmaster-General, he would, in view of the practical finality of his decisions, become the universal censor of publications. For a denial of the use of the mail would be for most of them tantamount to a denial of the right of circulation."

Justice Brandeis concluded with the following earnestly delivered sentences:

Leaves Little Substance to Bill of Rights

"The power here claimed is not a war power, there is no question of its necessity to protect the country from insidious domestic foes. To that end Congress conferred the enormous power contained in the espionage act of entirely excluding from the mails any letter, picture or publication which contained matter violating the broad terms of that act. But it did not confer, and the Postmaster General concedes that it did not confer, the vague and absolute authority practically to deny circulation to any publication which in his opinion is likely to violate in the future any postal law. The grant of that power is construed into a postal rate statute has frankly for years ago which has never before been suspected of containing such implications. I cannot believe that in establishing postal classification in 1879, Congress intended to confer upon the Postmaster General authority to issue the order here complained of.

"If, under the constitution, administrative officers may, as a mere incident of the peace time administration of their departments, be vested with the power to issue such orders as this, there is little substance in our bill of rights and in every extension of governmental functions lurks a new danger to civil liberty."

HORGAN AT HEAD OF DISTRICT COUNCIL

Boston Friends of Ireland Send Harding Protest Against British Acts

Delegates from the South End, Back Bay, Roxbury, Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury sections of Boston, representing seventeen councils in the eleventh congressional district, assembled in Ribernian Hall, Roxbury, for the purpose of organizing a district council and electing officers. Francis J. Horgan presided.

The following committees were appointed: By-days—Frank Tiernan, chairman, Martin Mulroy, Michael J. Monahan, Agnes Burke, Patrick J. King, John McDonald, John F. Kiernan, William J. Burke, Mrs. M. Gately, Mrs. D. A. Callahan.

Resolutions—Patrick F. Hastings, chairman, William Walsh, Frank Maguire, David Nash, Timothy J. McDonough, Edward A. Burke, John J. Kelley, P. M. O'Connor, Cornelius Mahoney and Dennis F. Shiels.

Credentials—James J. Casey, chairman; Edward E. Farley, Matthew F. Calvin, P. F. Sheahan, Patrick Dewey, Edward Clair, M. J. Leonard, Mrs. Jessie J. O'Connor, John Neary and Katherine C. Kohane.

The committee on credentials reported that the district was entitled to 322 delegates, representing 13,250 members, all of whom were present.

The following officers were elected: Francis J. Horgan, president; William Walsh, vice-president; Miss Margaret Tobin, secretary, and Mrs. Barbara McCoy, treasurer.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

EXECUTIONS PROTESTED.

"We deplore and solemnly protest against the execution by British military authorities of six Irishmen in Cork, despite the fact that they had laid down their arms and surrendered as prisoners of war; the proposed execution of twelve others and the threat to subject to a similar fate forty more Irishmen who now await court-martial, as inhuman and in direct violation of the provisions of the Hague convention of 1907 regarding laws of warfare on land.

"We believe it is both the right and the duty of these United States formally to remonstrate with the British government against this brutal and outrageous application of the principle that 'might makes right.' We call upon President Harding forthwith formally to protest to the British government against such methods and tactics and to demand that such conduct shall forthwith cease. Therefore be it resolved, that copies of these resolutions shall be forwarded forthwith to President Harding, United States Senators Lodge and Walsh and to the sixteen Massachusetts congressmen.

"The brutal reprisals, so-called, in Ireland, violating as they do all laws, customs and decency, disgrace civilization and threaten reversal to barbaric conduct and oppression. The continuation of such British terrorism in Ireland, if not speedily stopped by suggestion or demand from our government, threatens not only violation of our best ideals, but also stability of democratic institutions. Therefore we earnestly urge our State Department to use its moral suasion to prevent continuation of this savage and indefensible course of conduct on the part of the British authorities.

PRO-BRITISH MOVE IN U. S.

"A powerful pro-British propaganda, engineered by British interests, is being waged in this country to divert us from our traditions, ideals and pledges. To offset this propaganda and to awaken the public conscience to its duty, we believe that American institutions, interests, business and the rights of our workingmen and women may best be conserved and safeguarded by co-operation and active support. We, moreover, deem that it is our duty to advise against preference for and to English goods and concerns which may deal in such goods as well as English insurance companies. Therefore we urge our members to patronize exclusively American concerns and insurance companies.

"We deem that it is necessary, especially as one member of the President's Cabinet has stated that the debts due from foreign nations to our country ought to be cancelled, to protest emphatically against such cancellation. It is unjust to our people, unfair to our soldiers and sailors and a usurption of authority. We demand immediate payment of both principal and interest of such debts immediately. Therefore, be it resolved that copies of these resolutions be forwarded forthwith to President Harding, the members of his Cabinet and to the United States Senators and Congressmen from Massachusetts.

"Be it further resolved that it is the sense of this meeting that our government ought immediately to recognize the Republic of Ireland without intervention.

"Whereas, thousands of our citizens advocate the recognition of the Irish Republic by these United States, and, in so doing, request and expect that our government will do justice, will adhere to our sacred principles and will follow precedent; and whereas, in presenting Ireland's cause, we demand and are entitled to proper consideration, fair treatment and reasonable space in the news and editorial columns of the press of Boston; and whereas, despite these self-evident truths, certain Boston newspapers distort and misrepresent the conditions in Ireland, the work and purpose of the Irish Relief Commission and our motives and deliberately in their editorial columns and by the use of despicable actions, insult and attempt to belittle a great and just cause, presumably because they are pliant tools of Tory and English propagandists as well as emissaries of Lord Northcliffe and the like.

Be it resolved, that we do refuse to and do urge our members to refrain from purchasing such unfair newspapers, and that special notices to that effect be forwarded immediately to all members of our organization; be it further resolved, that a committee, consisting of fifteen delegates to this convention, shall be appointed forthwith, with full power and authority, to act in the premises, and to inform all business concerns which do now and may hereafter advertise in such newspapers, that thereby, in our judgment, they do approve of such policy and conduct by such newspapers, and that we will govern ourselves accordingly; and, be it further resolved, that copies of this resolutions shall be sent to all newspapers and to such other persons as the said committee may deem it wise to notify.

"And be it further resolved, that this convention commends the Boston American for its most fair editorial and news attitude and items in behalf of all liberty-loving people."

WILL INTRODUCE BONUS BILL FIRST DAY

Representative Fordney Announces House Will Get Veterans' Act at Special Session

By International News Service.

Washington, March 8.—Legislation, providing for the granting of a bonus to the veterans of the World War, will be introduced to the House on the day it reconvenes in special sessions, by Representative Fordney, Republican, Mich., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, he announced today.

Chairman Fordney was leader of the bonus forces in the last Congress, and was successful in having the bill passed by the House. It died in the Senate.

The new Fordney bill will be practically the same as the one passed previously, except that the tax and appropriation features will be eliminated, according to present plans.

Representative Royal Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, another leader in the fight for bonus legislation, announced today that he will conduct a campaign in the House for early consideration of the bill.

Fashion Exposition of Dress Fabrics

A-Bloom With the Fresh Beauty of Spring

Easter comes early this year, but not too early for us to be in full readiness with a plentiful supply of Dress Fabrics fashionable for Spring and Summer wear

Fashion Tendencies in Silhouettes

The keynote for 1921 Spring Fashions is simplicity. Yet never was there a season when diversity of silhouette had wider range—from the Directoire, the Princess, the Oriental with long, straight lines, to the Russian Blouse, the Kimono-cut Smock, and the Bouffant style of 1830.

Straight silhouettes with long girdle; clinging lines, lace paneling, tight corsaging with flaring hips, draperies and ruffle effects are all in evidence; and line and fabric are characterized by stately grace.

Fashion Tendencies in Fabrics

Little tots will wear fluffy dresses of organdy, dimity, checked marquisette, and Swiss muslin in the months ahead. Misses and women will find ginghams and voiles practical for semi-wear—and taffeta popular for street and afternoon fashions.

Dance frocks are calling for georgette and soft silks. As for laces, they are in wider vogue this Spring than they have been for years. Layer upon layer of exquisite flouncings are now assembled for collars, corsages and panels of airy frocks in the making.

New Springtime Silks

Radiant as the hue and glow of April's blossoming are our new silk modes in rare individuality of pattern and texture, offering striking effects in unique scrolls and figures of brilliant shades.

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c. —Advertisement.

SOMERVILLE BABY, INJURED BY AUTO, DIES

Child Hurt Sunday as Father Was Killed, Fails to Recover

Mary Marotta, two and a half years old, of No. 14 Merrian street, Somerville, died today from injuries received Sunday when she and her father, Dominico Marotta, were struck by an automobile at Webster avenue and Newton streets, Somerville.

The father was almost instantly killed as the machine, owned and driven by John J. Shine of No. 25 Sherman street, North Cambridge, struck him. Mrs. Marotta saw the tragedy.

Father and daughter were taken to the Somerville Hospital, but the father was pronounced dead on arrival and the child was allowed to be taken home. She became alarmingly ill yesterday.

Shine was arraigned in Somerville Police Court on the charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1,000 bail for a hearing March 23. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Shine, were in the automobile at the time of the tragedy.

What Is 'Bow-wow English' Anyway?

What is "bow-wow English?" Rev. John McNeil, pastor of the Park Washington Presbyterian Church, New York, speaking at a meeting of the Baptist Social Union, Ford Hall, said it was in use in the pulpit at present. He added that a minister could not be natural preaching from a box halfway up the side of the wall, like an egg in an egg cup.

Shades of Henry Ward Beecher and Phillips Brooks! "Real, unforced, spontaneous devotion is what is needed," he declared. "Religion without frills instead of the meaningless forms of machine-made worship which, set in only when whole-hearted, spontaneous devotion dies."

BUTLER'S WILL OPEN NEW MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

Whitman, assisted by Miss M. C. Panning. Mr. Whitman conducted a millinery establishment on Winter street a number of years ago.

CHILDREN GIVEN OVER TO ETHEL BARRYMORE

Actress to Have Their Sole Care Under Separation Agreement Just Signed

New York, March 8.—Definite announcement was made here that Ethel Barrymore has separated from her husband, Russell Griswold Colt, a separation agreement having been signed by the actress and her husband. Under the provisions of the document Miss Barrymore has the sole custody of their three children.

Confirmation of this report of the separation which has been current for three days was given by William Nelson Cromwell, attorney for Miss Barrymore.

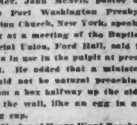
"Mrs. Barrymore-Colt," he said, "has refrained from making any statement whatever regarding her domestic concerns but in view of the wide publicity which has been given the subject it seems wiser to clear the atmosphere by now confirming the fact that she has definitely separated her home and life from Mr. Colt and that a separation agreement, has been formally executed by both parties and is in actual operation.

"By the agreement Mrs. Barrymore-Colt has the sole care, custody, control and education of the three young children."

Miss Barrymore, who has been ill for the past few weeks, has so much improved that she was removed to the Hotel Woodward where she and her three children, Samuel, Ethel and John will reside.

Mr. Colt is a son of Samuel P. Colt, rubber magnate of Rhode Island, and he has an office at No. 60 Broadway.

Spring Is The Time To "Clean House" Bodily



In the springtime a great many people find themselves below normal health. The body, weakened by colds and coughs and other ailments of the winter time cannot carry out the processes of repair, cannot efficiently "clean house" bodily.

In such cases a food medicine and not a drug medicine is safest and best. Father John's Medicine is a real food medicine. It helps to make richer, more active blood. It invigorates and makes more active the tired, run down body cells. This natural food medicine is quickly taken up by the digestive organs and supplies nourishment that is needed by the blood and the nervous system. It is the ideal food tonic to take in the springtime.

SEEK QUARTERS FOR 90 ON MONGOLIA

Sydney J. Jackson went down to Deer Island today to see what can be done to provide for the ninety odd saloon passengers on the Mongolia, held in quarantine since the discovery of a typhus case aboard. It is necessary that suitable accommodations be provided for these passengers, since the American line wants the ship released, due to the heavy expense of keeping her idle.

Just a Touch of Ice-Mint. PRESTO

Corns Wither and Lift Out With Fingers. No Pain

Corn sufferers gather round; get right up close and listen, here's good news for you.

The real genuine "Corn Killer" is here at last. No hacking. Ice-Mint the new discovery made from a Japanese product is said to remove any and all foot misery. Think of it; only a touch or two of this cooling, soothing ice-like and real foot joy is yours. No pain, not a bit of soreness, either before applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

It just makes a pair of tired, swollen, aching, burning feet glow with cooling comfort.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, and toughest of calluses just shrivel right up and lift off so easy. It's wonderful.

Every foot sufferer can appreciate a treatment like this, especially those who wear high heel shoes and men who are obliged to stand on their feet all day. Try it. Just ask in any drug store for a few cents worth of Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing like it.—Advertisement.

NEW ENGLAND TRADE REVIEW

Shoe Factories Busy on Spring Footwear

Attention of New England business men is riveted on Washington. Though better times are approaching and more textile and shoe factories are in operation than in several months, much constructive legislation from the new administration at the capital is needed to keep up the momentum and improve conditions. President Harding's inaugural address was full of promise.

The army of shoe salesmen are now on the road to their Western territories and they carry with them the good cheer that factories are operating "back home" and it is time to place orders and get aboard.

It was a different story they told in the last half of 1920, and naturally the psychological effect was depressing. In fact, some of the plants working on Spring footwear in New England are booked to capacity and manufacturers are hustling to fill orders.

The turn of the year saw a metamorphosis wrought in the shoe industry. Factories were closed and thousands of persons were walking the streets, and then came an avalanche of orders, putting manufacturers to it to get the goods out.

Just before the salesmen packed their grips a get-together meeting was held at the Boston Shoe Trades Club and nothing but sunshine came from it. Incidentally, plans were laid for the second National Shoe and Leather Exposition and Style Show to be held in Mechanics Building Oct. 11-14.

Wherever the salesmen go they will talk up this coming trade exhibit, and the manufacturers are confident that buyers who will flock here will be convinced beyond doubt that New England intends to hold its supremacy as the shoe centre of the country.

So it is with the cotton cloth mills in Fall River, New Bedford, Providence and the rest of the great centres turning out cotton cloth. Business is not of the boom variety—far from it—but factories are running today, where they were closed not many months ago, which indicates that the end of the tunnel has been reached.

The favorable response of the trade to the American Woolen Co.'s opening of overcoatings has been a bracing tonic to the entire woolen goods industry. Though prices announced were as much as 50 per cent. lower, the trade seemed to realize that they were cheap and it does not take much of an increase in demand to see some marking up of prices.

Perhaps the most disturbing factor in New England is the deplorable condition of the railroads here. The railroads have all they could ask in the transportation act now in effect and rates have been advanced tremendously.

But the slump in business saw freight tonnage fade away and the net difference was worse than before rates went up. Then came the plea of the railroad executives for still another increase of 10 per cent. in freight and passenger rates, but the storm of protest that followed from the shippers makes it doubtful if that boost will be made.

The Associated Industries of Massachusetts, the New England Traffic Club and other organizations of shippers voiced their objection and suggested lower wages and greater efficiency as the alternative. The New Haven and Boston & Albany roads have followed that suggestion, with wage cut announcements.

Shippers take the attitude that a further increase in rates in New England would be too great a handicap to local industries in competing with other sections of the country; that an increase would result in a falling off in traffic and further add to the cost of living.

The closing of five trust companies has led to the belief in other sections of the country that New England banks are not standing up well in the period of readjustment. Frederic H. Curtis, federal reserve agent of the federal reserve district of Boston, refutes this fallacy as follows:

"The general financial situation in New England, as reflected by the reserves shown by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, is most satisfactory. The banking situation is especially strong, fully as strong in fact as in any other section of the country.

"The banks in New England have withstood in a most satisfactory manner the severe fall in commodity prices of the past year. There have, thus far, been very few commercial failures in the district; in fact, less than anywhere else in the country.

"It must not be overlooked, however, that the failure of five big Boston trust companies during the last six months has injured somewhat the reputation of Boston and New England for financial soundness in the eyes of the rest of the country, and it has been necessary to constantly explain that those trust companies have been in a class by themselves, and that their failure was due to mismanagement and not to any weakness in the local industrial situation."

In Boston building operations are at a standstill, because of the strike of some 12,000 building workers, who refuse to accept a cut in wages. They have been out since January 20 and only a fourth of them have left the city to work elsewhere.

Building operations throughout New England are far from encouraging to meet the home and office shortage. The F. W. Dodge Company reports building and engineering operations in New England for the week ending March 5, totaled $1,246,000, compared with $3,763,000 corresponding period of 1920.

WAGES CUT BY SWIFT AND ARMOUR

Packing Houses to Eliminate 8-Hour Day and Slash Pay 12½ Per Cent.

By International News Service.

Chicago, March 8.—Wages of employes of the two largest packing establishments in the United States—Armour & Co. and Swift & Co.—will be reduced, effective March 14, according to official announcement today.

Workers who are paid by the hour will be asked to accept a cut of eight cents an hour, while those paid by piecework rates will be reduced approximately 12½ per cent.

The basic eight-hour day also will be eliminated in the Armour and Swift plants.

Although Armour and Swift are the only packing concerns to make an announcement of contemplated wage cuts, it is understood that other packing concerns are preparing to take similar action.

The move affects the plants of Swift and Armour throughout the entire country. In Chicago alone approximately 35,000 workers are concerned.

That the announcement of wage reductions will bring about a strike in the packing industry was regarded as highly probable today. Leaders of the Packing House Employes' Union already have declared that they will not accept a reduction in wages.

Crown Forces and Armed Civilians in Clash at Clonmel; Three Irish Arrested

London, March 8.—In a conflict between the Crown forces and armed civilians at Clonmel, County Tipperary, Patrick Hogan, who was said to have been a Republican battalion commander, was shot dead. Three others were arrested.

A British officer and two men were wounded when fired upon from ambush in Galway. James Kennealy, a [illegible] was shot dead by [illegible] while resisting arrest in a field.

Following rumors that Vickery's Hotel at Bantry was to be taken over by the auxiliaries and burned, two arrests were made by the military of persons for activity in spreading the report.

The Daily Herald today stated that the best authority for the report that the cadets who were dismissed by General Crozier have been ordered to rejoin their companies, is found in the fact that the promised arrears in pay have been paid.

The Carnegie Library at Listowell in County Kerry was burned to the ground during the night.

While the congregation of a Catholic church were at worship in Milltown-Milibray, soldiers surrounded the building. All the men were forced to march two miles to repair a bridge.

Fifteen soldiers were captured by Sinn Feiners near Rosslare, but were subsequently released by their companions.

Throw away your old mop and buy a MASCO today.

Every MASCO is trade marked, wrapped and labeled.

The MASCO MOP
is one hundred per cent better

MASCO PRODUCTS

The MASCO does the work in half the usual time.

WE have improved on the regulation floor mop by making the MASCO twice as absorbent and again as durable.

This makes the MASCO soak up water twice as fast as the mop you are acquainted with. This lets the MASCO do that clean-up job in half the usual time. It cleans easier. It cleans cleaner. It wrings out with half the effort. It dries two times quicker.

If you have passed up the mop as a clumsy unsatisfactory implement—if you now get down on your hands and knees to clean floors—buy a MASCO and do this work just as thoroughly with more comfort and ease.

There is a light, 8 ounce, short stringed MASCO made especially for housework. It gets into and cleans the hard-to-clean places. It fits women's hands. Its short strings do not swish and fling the water around.

The MASCO can also be had in other sizes up to big, generous 32 ounce mops for cleaning large floors, regular "he" mops.

Remember the name MASCO. Remember the triangle trademark. Remember every MASCO is wrapped and labeled just to make it easy for you to reorder and get the same quality when you need another.

The light, household size MASCO retails for 45c, the medium size for 60c and the large size for 75c.

For sale by grocers, housefurnishing and hardware dealers and department stores. If your dealer doesn't sell MASCO Mops he can get them quickly from the distributors named below.

Which of these people will go to the electric chair?

WILL it be Jennie Follett, the artist's model? Will it be Teddy Follett, her young brother, or Hubert Wray, the sculptor for whom Jennie poses? Will it be proud Mrs. Collingham, the banker's wife or Bob Collingham, her son, in love with Jennie? You'll have to read "The Empty Sack," Basil King's new novel beginning in March Cosmopolitan, to find out which of these normal, average Americans commits a murder that eventually leads to the Room with the Little Green Door.

Where a little love buys a square meal

The Cafe Germania in Vienna, the City of Death—lively groups of boisterous men and starving women—outside, wretched figures hurrying through dark streets in a cold drizzle of rain. "That's what they've come for," Lieutenant Bramber said to Sir Philip Gibbs as they sipped their Niersteiner, "That's why they're flirting with foreign officers. A little love in return for a square meal!" Then, there was one girl who was "different." She was "The Madonna of the Hungry Child." Read Sir Philip Gibbs' dramatic narrative in March Cosmopolitan. You can buy it today.

How many ribs has a man?

Has a man one less rib than a woman? Have you ever really seen a mad dog? Does a person actually come up three times before drowning? Do you believe in mind-reading, clairvoyancy, spiritualism, or palmistry? Are you credulous or superstitious? No matter what your pet fallacy may be, let Fred C. Kelly tell you what he thinks about the thousand and one things people believe in without ever knowing whether they are true or false. Read "Do We Like to Be Fooled" in the March issue of Cosmopolitan.

Read these things in March Cosmopolitan, but remember that it isn't any one of them that makes this America's Greatest Magazine—it's all of them—two distinguished novels, six uncommon features and five unusual stories are in this one big number.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, backvousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advertisement.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacobs Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains.—Advertisement.

Sure Way To Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

"Forbidden Fruit," at the Park Theatre, Shows What Cecil DeMille Can Do With an Old Story

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

SEVERAL years ago we saw a Lasky picture that attracted more than usual attention—and that was before there were such things as super-features in the movies. each picture was more or less like the other—as far as production itself was concerned. This film, however, "The Golden Chance," was unusually popular both because of its strong story and its splendid cast. In it Wallace Reid and Cleo Ridgeley made tremendous individual hits and it immediately put Reid in the star class.

We speak of this because "Forbidden Fruit," playing at the Park Theatre, is "The Golden Chance," brought to date and lavishly "Celdemillied." The same story is there, scarcely changed, and it is a strong argument in favor of refilming old stories when good ones are few and far between—and some of our producers are finding them scarce.

Agnes Ayers, looking very Cecil DeMille in "Forbidden Fruit."

Mr. Mallory, an oil magnate is one persuades Mary to get young Rogers, a million-aire, interested in his oil fields, understudy her. Rogers, however, doesn't seem impressed and is Maddock turned only persuaded to out quickly. "for stay long enough worse," consents, to talk it over by becomes Cinderella, and proceeds Mrs. Mallory's invitation to meet to win the love "the prettiest girl of young Rogers, in New York." "The prettiest voices into a girl" can't come at the last minute because of illness and Mrs. Mallory Mary had discovers it. to get Rogers, her seamstress, to tangle of jewel robbery, blackmail, confession, the death of Maddock and the final happy dissolve.

The story has gone, lost nothing in its modernizing, being a trifle muffled by the insertion of a gorgeously costumed Cinderella episode, as the "Three Keatons." Today he spends nearly half his time in hospitals recovering from broken bones and sprains. He's a successful comedian now, but he's paid for it with hard bumps.

week-end party. Mary and Rogers plot deeply in love, though her only the shiftless husband and then comes a awkwardness of that given her by her customer and hair-dresser. This adore Roberts as the oil enthusiast gives his usual splendid performance, while Kathleen Williams handles the role of the designing hostess very cleverly. It ranks among DeMille's best works.

Appointed Guardian

Louise W. Jackson of Cambridge has been appointed as guardian of Harriet Jackson, aged seventeen; Edmund B. Jackson, aged fourteen, and Mary W. Jackson, aged seven, all of Cambridge. She has given a bond of $45,000. Their property is valued at $73,000.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT.

THERE are still some who think that the movies have exhausted all the possible channels of novelty, but they are few and far between. Even these will have to bow before the decided novelty in the Klein-Ferguson picture "Sacred and Profane Love," taken from Arnold Bennett's novel, "The Book of Carlotta."

In this film the subtitles throughout have been put on the movie scene itself, instead of flashing to a blank screen with the words written on it. The action is dimmed a little to make the letters stand out, but otherwise it is the continued action of the story.

According to Edward Knoblock, the dramatist who is in Hollywood studying film-making, it is "the cleverest scheme for increasing the continuous flow of a screen story" that he has ever seen.

CAMERA CLICKS.

TWO MORE weddings are slated for the film colony. Larry Semon will soon marry his leading lady, Lucille Carlisle, and it is rumored that Blanche Sweet will marry Marshall Neilan.

MAE MURRAY has laid down the law regarding her future pictures. "No more ingenue stuff for me," she told an interviewer recently. "I want the plays with tragic touches and a strong climax. Give me a part with depth and emotion and feeling and I'm happy."

ANN WEINRICH, a Sacramento hockey girl, was called as an expert for the Mary Pickford picture the other day. The scene called for a bridge party and no one at the Brunton studios knew whether you dealt from right to left or trumped your partner's ace or any of the little details of the game. When you see the picture you'll know it's all according to Hoyle.

ALL THE California stars went up to San Francisco last week for the movie ball. Clara Kimball Young and the Mayor led the grand march, with Bebe Daniels, Mary Miles Minter and Phyllis Haver following.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF KEATON

IN THE STUDIOS it is customary for the publicity agent to give out printed sheets for the players to fill out. The information given is then used in writing up publicity stories.

The other day the agent on the Metro lot gave Buster Keaton one of these sheets with a demand for the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Here's what he got:

Name ..... Buster Keaton
Born ..... Certainly
Hair ..... My own (black)
Eyes .....
Two of them (usually black)
Ambition .....
To marry Natalie Talmadge
Pet Aversion .....Work
Favorite Song .....
"Do You Ever Think of Me"
(Dedicated to my Director)
Motto ..... Gimme the same

MORE TRUTHS ABOUT HIM.

BUSTER Keaton has had a stiff time getting to his present position. His father and mother were known on the vaudeville stage as the "Two Keatons."

When Buster was a baby he was brought on the stage by his father for a bow and always got a laugh by being tossed carelessly around the stage. From then on his life was, as he describes it, "just one darn bump after another."

When he was about four years old he became a regular feature of the act, which was then known

DENIES INTENT IN SHOOTING OF DAUGHTER

Rockland Woman Maintains Affair Was Accidental; Police Investigate

Rockland, March 8.—Although Mrs. Cora Clark still insisted today that the shooting of her daughter, Mrs. William McGarry, at their home here was accidental, Sheriff John T. Condon was conducting a thorough probe of the mysterious affair.

He visited the injured woman at the Brockton Hospital and questioned her about events leading up to the shooting. Several phases of it, he said, had not been explained to his satisfaction.

Mrs. McGarry, the superintendent of the hospital said, will probably recover. The bullet entered the right breast and came out just below the right arm pit, six inches from the point of entrance.

Mrs. Clark has not been placed under arrest. She is at the home where she lived with her daughter, son-in-law and their two children in a court off Union street.

The son-in-law, William McGarry, who was arrested a few hours before the shooting of his wife, is in jail at Whitman. He will be arraigned Wednesday on a charge of breaking and entering. According to the police he has confessed.

"Just before my daughter left for the hospital she kissed me good-bye and placed the children in my charge," Mrs. Clark told a Boston American reporter.

"How terrible if anyone should think the shooting was other than accidental.

"I was straightening up the kitchen when I noticed a revolver in a holster beneath a pile of newspapers on the table. I supposed my son-in-law had brought it home before he had been taken away by the police, so I went over to get it and put it out of the children's reach.

"As I turned around to put the revolver on a shelf I must have pulled the trigger, although I don't remember doing so. It was an automatic, they say, and had it had more bullets in it, would have fired several times. I am thankful there was only one."

Mrs. Clark said the gun must have been on the table when McGarry was arrested as she had not seen it until she started to remove it.

This is one of the phases of her story doubted by the police.

Sheriff Condon and Night Patrolman C. J. McHugh each declared that the revolver was not on the table when they visited the house earlier to arrest McGarry.

Mrs. Clark denied that she and her daughter had quarreled. On the other hand she professed devotion to the young wife, who is only twenty-one years old.

BAY STATE TOWNS INDORSE PROHIBITION IN ELECTIONS

FIVE WOMEN CHOSEN FOR WINCHESTER GOVERNMENT

Lack of interest featured the elections at annual meetings in 321 Massachusetts towns. A light vote was the rule, with women not showing any remarkable interest in exercising their first privilege at the polls.

Most of the women candidates for office were defeated, the most notable exceptions being in Winchester, where five were elected, and in Rockport where a woman was elected treasurer and collector.

Lincoln suffered a setback, more towns returning to the dry column than recording their disapproval of prohibition.

Because of the nine women on the town ticket at Winchester this town's election aroused state-wide interest. The five successful candidates were as follows:

WOMAN CHOSEN TOWN CLERK.

Miss Frances G. Fitzgerald, who defeated Patrick Cleary by a 4-to-1 election to a two-year term as overseer of poor, by a vote of 1,294 to 1,161.

Mrs. Stella F. Root who defeated two women candidates for a three-year term on the school committee.

Mrs. H. F. Zoheim who defeated Mrs. Frances Sullivan for a two-year term on the school board.

Miss Mabel Stinson was unopposed for town clerk as was Miss A. Natalie Jewett for a three-year term on the school board.

Other officials elected were:

Selectmen, George E. Willey, James W. Blackman, J. Waldo Rund, Joseph A. Dolben, George M. Bryne; treasurer, Geo. H. Eustis; assessors, Harry T. Winn, three years, James Hinds, two years; tax collector, William Jones; school committee, Dunbar F. Carpenter, Henry S. Chapman; water and sewer commissioner, Edward B. Mansfield; board of health, Mark R. Jouett, Jr.

License was defeated. 1,849 to 677.

LEXINGTON "DRY" AGAIN.

Lexington returned to the no license column, 735 to 533, and accepted the Sunday sales act. Women cast about one-half of the 1,579 ballots. The following officials were elected:

Town clerk for one year, Arthur W. Hatch; selectmen for three years, Joseph R. Cotton; overseer of the poor for three years, Joseph R. Cotton, road commissioner for three years, Joseph R. Cotton; assessor for three years, Henry E. Tuttle; town treasurer for one year, George D. Harrington; collector of taxes for one year, Byron C. Locke; water and sewer commissioner for three years, William H. Burgess; cemetery commissioner for three years, Charles J. Dailey; school committee for three years, Mrs. Nina F. McLellan; board of health for three years, William J. Marshall; park commissioner for three years, William F. Mullin; town warden for one year, Sheldon A. Robinson; constables for one year, Charles H. Franks and Patrick J. Maguire; moderator for one year, Sidney R. Wrightington, and planning board for three years, William H. Ballard and Frederick R. Gallupe.

Dedham was another town to return to the no license column. Two women candidates were defeated. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, William B. Brown, John K. Burgess and Charles J. Hurley; moderator, D. Grenville Darling; auditors, Arthur Daniels, Edwin C. Holland and George Ingraham.

READING ELECTS 3 WOMEN.

Reading elected two women to office, and upheld no license, 295 to 260, and rejected Sunday sports and boxing. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, Otis D. Ruggles, Charles Howard, W. S. Kingsley; library trustees, Miss Edith M. Bancroft, A. N. Mansfield; school committee, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, H. Q. Millett.

Bedford returned to no license, 158 to 105. Officials elected were: Moderator, Charles W. Jenks; constables, Edwin J. Jones.

Stoneham reversed its last year's decision on license by going no, 1,437 to 785. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, L. V. Chisham; W. H. White, W. H. Lister; overseers of the poor, S. A. Hill, F. J. Howell, C. W. Evans; assessor, C. A. Cook.

Wakefield cast 2,641 votes out of a registration of 4,314, and went no license, 1,329 to 888, reversing last year's affirmative majority of 242. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, L. L. McMaster, H. E. Clemons, W. S. Goodwin, Edward Sullivan, all re-elected, and E. H. Peterson, overseer of poor for three years, Mrs. Adelaide J. Boynton; municipal light board, Marcus Beebe, 3d.

HULL GOES LICENSE.

Hull voted for license, 324 to 114. Officials elected were:

Selectmen for three years, James Jeffrey; tax collector, James Jeffrey; moderator, Frank Hickey; assessor, H. R. Skelton; clerk, A. F. Pope; overseer of poor, Nettie M. Burns; auditor, J. E. Campbell; treasurer, E. E. Nickerson; school committee three years, Mrs. Carrie E. Mitchell.

North Reading increased last year's wet majority of 2 by 89 votes, the result being no, 705; yes, 313. Officials elected were: Selectmen and overseers of poor, Louis M. Dowling, F. R. Batchelder, H. Leslie Upton.

Holbrook had a lively contest for selectmen and voted against license, 1,062 to 529. The selectmen elected were: Henry W. S. Roberts, John King and Roy Dunham.

Saugus cast 1,137 votes, went decisively no-license and gave R. A. Parker the office of town clerk and tax collector for his sixteenth year by the high vote of the ticket. Other officials elected were:

Selectmen, Walter Sprague, J. G. Holmes and H. M. Forristall; treasurer, H. D. Blabee; school board, F. P. Bennett, L. E. Morse.

SHARON RETURNS HISSON.

Election of reads "poison pen" notoriety elected Edgar M. Hisson whose name was forged to the letters as assessor and two victims of the slander in the letter, Timothy F. Quinn and Ambrose Peach were elected water commissioner and highway commissioner, respectively. Bad roads kept many voters from the polls. Other officials elected were:

Selectman, Rev. C. W. Broomell; clerk, W. H. Capen; treasurer, G. A. Dennett; school committee, Mrs. Bessie S. Curtis.

Andover elections proved markedly uninteresting to the 1,700 women voters, only about 100 going to the polls, less than twenty-five per cent. of the total registrants cast their ballots. In the only contest G. N. Sparks of Ballardvale was elected constable. The voters rejected 2 to 1 over and decided on adjournment of town warrant articles until March 14. Braintree women turned out and raised the no license majority, 1,092 to 581. Officials elected were:

Town clerk, H. A. Jenks; selectmen and overseers of poor, George H. Holbrook, Benjamin H. Wondson, Edward Avery; assessor for three years, Edward Avery; surveyor of highways, Edward Avery; town treasurer, O. B. Oakman; tax collector, S. A. Neal; school committee for three of the years T. J. Baldwin; planning board, E. L. Emerson, F. L. French, C. L. Clinton.

CLINTON GOES REPUBLICAN.

Clinton cast the remarkable vote of 4,111 out of a possible 4,727 and celebrated the occasion by turning Republican and going over to the dry column, 1,939 to 1,699. Civil service for police was rejected despite a vigorous campaign for the plan. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, J. S. Illiam, Republican, Edward Greenwood, Republican, Edward W. Brady, Democrat; town clerk, Edward Greenwood with a probable recount of his majority of nine votes over Austin J. Kittredge, present clerk.

Norton rejected the two-platoon fire department plan by a vote of 1,257 to 462 and went no license, 947 to 767. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, E. A. Guild, F. Healy, J. A. Murphy; clerk, Walter Ames; treasurer, Arthur Tirrell; assessor, Joseph Kelliher; tax collector, Andrew Cunningham; school committee, Mrs. Maud Sullivan, Peter McKenna; water commissioner, Michael Ward; highway surveyor, John Hawley, Jr.; board of health, Robert Rogers.

NORTH ADAMS' RECORD VOTE.

Belmont was another town where less than 25 per cent. of the voters cast their ballots. The town went no license, 578 to 353 and elected the following officials:

Selectmen, Fred M. Poor; clerk, A. S. Hough; treasurer and collector, Guy E. Weymouth; assessor for two years, F. E. A. Cashing; three years, William B. Swain; school committee, Mrs. W. Reiss, Mrs. Helen A. Wellington; water commissioner, W. H. Grimes; Board of Health, Dr. L. B. Clark.

Wellesley elections resulted in a contest between the men and women voters of precinct 1 to cast the greater number of ballots, that ended in a draw, seventy-eight each. There were no contests, and only 332 ballots cast, no license being defeated decisively.

How to Be Stylish

Any woman may dress according to the standards of style set by the world's greatest designer, Lady Duff Gordon, if she but follows the clearly illustrated plates and minute descriptions of women's outerwear shown every week in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

North Adams polled one of the heaviest votes in its history, 2,187 ballots being counted. The town went license, 1,232 to 931. Officials elected were: Selectmen, Dr. Joseph H. Choquette; assessor, John D. Haynes.

WOMAN'S SPEECH SCORES.

Plainville swung back to the no license column, 110 to 86, and dismissed James F. Crotty as constable after twenty years of service. Selectmen elected were W. H. Barton, chairman, W. E. Blanchard and E. H. Pink. Barton's election over the present Chairman Nash by 13 votes was a surprise.

Norton election was featured by the speech of Mrs. Howard Woodward, which resulted in the appointment of a committee to "modernize" the staid old village by proving the advisability of installing an electric light system. No license won, 154 to 111. Officials elected were: Selectmen, Charles O. Bird, Elmer K. Lane, George H. O'Brien, all re-elected; town clerk and treasurer, Jacob A. Leonard, for thirty-eighth consecutive term; warden, Albert S. Lincoln; School Committee, Mrs. Lena C. Whitaker.

Gardner elections were lively and resulted as follows:

Selectman, James A. Timpany; assessor, Jaddus V. Leger; planning board, Thomas J. Gilhooly.

ROCKPORT ELECTS WOMAN.

Weston defeated Mrs. Louis Brooks, its woman candidate for selectman and returned to the no license column. Selectmen elected were Henry Weatherbee, Henry Bonney and Samuel Prince. John French was elected school committeeman.

Acton rejected Sunday sports and license. Officials elected were: Selectman, A. W. Davis; school committee, Mrs. Alice M. Carlisle.

Rockport elected Mrs. Louis F. Sherburne over Fred F. Poole as treasurer and tax collector by 473 to 340, about 800 women casting ballots. License was defeated, 587 to 273. Officials elected were:

Selectmen, John H. Dennis, Eli L. Morgan, Frank C. Todd; town clerk, Byron C. Russell; auditors, A. Carl Buttman, N. E. Potter, Elliot H. Brown; assessor, Frank C. Todd; school committee, Fred M. Pulsifer; water commissioner, Frank E. Elwell; highway surveyor, Fred E. Smith.

ARLINGTON REJECTS LICENSE.

Arlington rejected license by 2,192 to 1,312 and elected the following officers:

Selectmen, Charles M. Higgins, clerk, Thomas J. Robinson; treasurer, Charles A. Hardy; moderator, John A. Calhari; assessor, F. Albert Patterson; tax collector, Edward A. Bailey; school committee, Charles H. Carroll, John A. Downes, Alexander M. Rice; board of health, Dr. Charles F. Atwood.

Hingham voted $10,000 to continue the car service on the East Weymouth-Hingham Depot-Queen's Ann Corner line, debate on which took up so much time that the meeting was postponed for a week.

Watertown women cast about one-half of the vote, great interest being manifested in selecting candidates for the limited town meetings, about a third of the successful ones appearing to be women in the late returns. The town went license by an increased majority. Officials were elected as follows:

Selectmen, Charles M. Abbott, Ernest R. Ingalls, G. Frederick Hatherson; clerk, William J. McGuire; treasurer, Harry W. Brigham; assessor, B. Fay Mosmanin; tax collector, Fred J. Colby; school committee, Harold M. Blaze, Mrs. Alice M. Silsbee; water commissioner, Joseph W. Gerry; board of health, A. M. Graham.

THREE CONFESS TO HAVERHILL HOLDUP

Manchester, N. H., March 8.—Amie Cantin, of No. 89 Lake avenue; William E. Smith, of No. 452 Manchester street, and Valmere Tremblay, of No. 886 Elm street, were arrested, charged with the robbery of Paul Counter of Raymond, who alleges that the man lured him into an alleyway in the rear of the Greek Orthodox Church, on Pine street, hit him on the head with a hardwood stick and robbed him of $300, overlooking his watch.

The men under arrest, confessing the holdup, insist they secured only $12.

All Town Salaries Cut One Third

Sterling, Ct., March 8.—The town offices for this town have heard the cry of "economy" from Washington and, without any petition whatever, the three selectmen called a town meeting to cut down their own salaries 33 1-3 per cent.

This is the first case on record in the State of Connecticut where such a meeting was ever called.

As the result of the meeting today every town official was reduced 33 1-3 per cent., voted for the resolution themselves and established the first genuine "economy" record since Harding's message was made public.

NUXATED IRON

Helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

WEAK NERVES AND THIN BLOOD

RUIN HEALTH OF THOUSANDS WITHOUT THEIR EVER SUSPECTING THE REAL CAUSE OF THEIR TROUBLE—IRON STARVATION

An enormous number of people who ought to be strong, vigorous and in the prime of life are constantly complaining of weak nerves, headaches, pains across the back, disturbed digestion, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, a general "run-down" condition, melancholy, bad memory, etc., all as a result of iron starvation of the blood.

There are 50,000,000,000,000 red blood corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron. Without iron your blood also loses its power to change food into living cells and tissue, and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it and as a consequence you become gradually weakened both in body and mind.

If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: You have simply to ask your druggist for a 5-grain tablet of ordinary Nuxated Iron (three times as much iron as is contained in the usual 60-grain tablet) and after you have taken this for a few days notice how much strength and endurance you have gained.

Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It will not injure the teeth nor stain the stomach, because it is organic iron like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and not metallic iron which people usually take. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letter N. I. on each tablet. Sold by all druggists.

Stocks React From High; Money 7%; Exchange Lower

PRICES ADVANCE AFTER THE OPENING

Traders Take a Hopeful View of European Situation Despite Invasion of Germany

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, having reacted from the highest morning prices.

Steels had a good tone. United Fruit was weak in that market as well as in the one here. Trading was of fair volume.

Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were a little lower.

Demand sterling opened half a cent lower at $3.85. Francs, lire and marks were down.

RALLIED QUICKLY.

At the opening prices were below the level at the close on Monday, but they began to rally quickly, and within a few minutes the list could be called irregular. It was a narrow movement in either direction, however. A few stocks in each department were active, but otherwise early trading was restricted. Industrial preferred issues were weak, but the common was strong. Rails had a weak opening but considered as a class U. S. Steel and Crucible were the only conspicuous stocks which were featured by Mexican Petroleum. Little was done in motors except by Studebaker and Chandler. Atlantic Gulf and International Corporation led shipping issues, and Baldwin the equipments. Tires improved and sugars weakened. Coppers were firm. Tobaccos eased off. General Asphalt was the only specialty given much attention. Reviewing the list as a whole it may be said that the advance of allied armies into Germany seemed to have been discounted by the rallies yesterday.

WATCH FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Traders watched foreign exchange closely yesterday and today as a barometer of the situation in Europe. Its serious wane is regarded as an indication that the outlook for an agreement between Germany and the Allies is so obdurate that the use of troops to force the Teutons to compliance might imply. A New York dispatch says: "The action of the stock market was interpreted as indicating that those in the know were not in the least apprehensive as to the final outcome of the indemnity situation." The trouble with Germany is being offset to some extent in shaping sentiment by reports from Russia. While they are conflicting, it is generally believed that the present regime is that control of soldiers and that its downfall will mark the beginning of an era of real European reconstruction.

No Spring Building Boom

There is little likelihood of a boom in building construction this Spring, according to John White, Ph. D., director of research for the National Association of Credit Men, who has just completed an extensive study of the present situation and the outlook. He expects a gradual resumption of building activity in the Spring that will mount slowly month by month until, by the late Summer, it may reach substantial levels and possibly be very active by Fall.

TAXI FIRMS CALL INDEPENDENTS IRRESPONSIBLE

Former Assure Public of Safety and Protection, Declares W. F. Garcelon

Editor, Boston American:

The Boston American recently printed a letter from the counsel of Independent Taxi Owners which needed many corrections to ensure accuracy. The complaint is made that hotel and railroad taxi stands are not free to all comers.

Abutters may object to public taxi stands before their property.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court has clearly stated the law, but the independents prefer to try their case in the newspapers to carrying it to the Supreme Court.

The facts are these:

There are five or six responsible companies doing a taxi cab business in Boston.

ALL TRIPS ON RECORD.

Nearly all the hotels designate the company which they prefer to have taxis from their hotels. For the convenience of patrons a telephone is installed, a taxi agent is stationed on the premises and guests are allowed to charge taxi fares to their rooms.

There is also the assurance of regular service, responsibility for loss or damage, safety for unescorted women, and the assurance that the provision for touring cars of first-class quality—so often needed by sight-seeing visitors in historic Boston.

The taxi company agents keep a record of each trip and if a passenger desires to know what time he or she left a hotel or station at 2 p. m. January 22, or any other day, the record is available.

This is frequently useful in tracing losses and accidents.

Independents have no such safeguard.

PROTECTS UNESCORTED WOMEN.

The Boston American has printed several stories during the last year of the outrageous treatment of unescorted women in New York by taxicab drivers. Under the New York system which Mr. Webber would introduce here there is no protection provided upon this.

Visitors to Boston are entitled to the best service and when they enter a taxicab they ought to be able to know that they are riding with a responsible driver in a cab owned by a responsible company or person.

"Why not have what happens to be first on a public stand?"

The answer is obvious to a sensible person and all the talk about monopoly and persecutions will fool no public.

The record kept by the taxi agent at the hotel guards against abuse and fraud. The company responsibility is worth very much in these days of many accidents.

INDEPENDENTS "UNINSURED."

None of the independents carry insurance—so Mr. Webber said at the State House.

Those who risk their good names at stake desire to safeguard guests leaving their hotels. For the convenience of patrons a telephone is installed, a taxi agent is stationed on the premises and guests are allowed to charge taxi fares to their rooms.

There is also the assurance of regular service, responsibility for loss or damage, safety for unescorted women, and the assurance that the provision for touring cars of first-class quality—so often needed by sight-seeing visitors in historic Boston.

Councillor Lane Raps State Grab at Power

An attempt to perpetuate the Hoosiang board whose functions were eliminated with prohibition was the way City Councillor Daniel W. Lane termed House Bill 807 which takes away from the city the regulation of amusements and public entertainments.

Councillor Lane's usually even temperament was ruffled by this fresh attempt to snatch power from the city by the State, and he made the third or fourth speech of his career as councillor in denouncing it.

"It is an unwarranted interference with municipal functions and as additional and uncalled for expense to the taxpayers," said Dud, who is a graduate of Harvard and Incidentally a director of the Armory A. A. a more than passing interest in the manly sport of hands and take.

All the councillors aided with him and those legislators who have come to Dud will hear from the City Council anon.

'LID' OFF BEER FOR USE AS MEDICINE

Physicians, Under New Ruling, Are Given Wide Latitude in Prescribing It

By International News Service.

Washington, March 8.—The Prohibition "lid" was removed today on "Beer with a kick" for medicinal purposes.

The Department of Justice ruled that physicians are authorized under the Volstead law to prescribe beer when in their judgment it will prove beneficial.

The beer ruling was drafted before the new administration came into office and bears the signature of A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general.

Beer now takes a status equal to that of wine, as a curative agent, legislated by the government and physicians will be allowed wide latitude to discuss its use by patients when such use will aid recovery from cases of illness or convalescence.

The beer decision is the climax of a warm conflict between some of the governmenta legal minds. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes opposed such a ruling, on the ground it would mean general loosening up of the rules governing the manufacture and the sale of their products.

Physicians now are considering amendments to existing rules, which will allow brewers to sell beer of about 2 per cent alcoholic content in order that all may be under the law available to meet expected demands upon physicians for the liquid.

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Unless the Queen's College sextet vastly improves on the form it displayed in taking its 3 to 0 licking from the B. A. A., it is due for another defeat tonight when it meets the Harvard team, now known as the Crimson Ramblers.

An able goal tend, McNeil by name; a defence player with real speed, carrying Ratchford as his moniker, and a forward by the name of Campbell, who uncorked several hard, accurate drives in the course of the B. A. A. contest, were the only feature players the Queen's team disclosed, and as the result of its unequal strength the Unicorns were continually peppering the Canadian cage, while throughout the greater part of the contest they kept Queen's far from the B. A. A. net.

Only twice was Jack Wilde called upon to stop shots in the third period; just three stone throws checked down for him in the second session of play, while in the first period Queen's busiest section of the game.—Wylde's stops totaled but seven.

The Crimson Ramblers are expected to have accommodated themselves to six-men play since their appearance against Le Touse, and their natural speed and ability combined with the strength they boast in the net, should prove sufficient to hold off the Queen's from Kingston.

Ice Polo Game Fails to Impress

The debut of ice polo at the Arena in conjunction with the Queen's-B. A. A. game aroused but little enthusiasm. The Elmwood Independents of Providence, three times Amateur Hockey champions, defeated the Wollaston five, 2 to 1, but the play, in direct contrast with hockey, appeared slow and lacking in finesse. Olsen, the Brown University football quarterback, proved the outstanding player, scoring the first game unaided and passing to his teammates for the second final and winning point of the game. Georg tallied Wollaston's lone point.

Deciding Round in School Series Called Off

The anticipated deciding round of hockey to determine the 1921 Suburban League champion, will not take place.

Melrose High School authorities, who not so long ago made no protest whatsoever when their team played four and five games in a single week, have declared the boys' physical welfare will not permit them to bring the series to a definite conclusion, while the Newton authorities have stated that if Melrose is not to play, the Newton team will not participate in further games.

Only Cambridge Latin, which in the recent series appeared the best of the teams, is anxious to continue play through to a decision.

Any other governing body than the Suburban League would declare Cambridge Latin the winner after such refusal to play on the part of Melrose and Newton, but it would appear that no such action is to be taken by officials of this league.

BASEBALL WORK AT B.C. STARTS IN EARNEST

Coach McCarthy After Batsmen and Will Weed Out Those Who Cannot Hit

The Boston College baseball squad was enriched by a score of new candidates when they started work in earnest, bringing the total up around forty.

Behind the bat and around the infield there is plenty of high-class material, with competition the rule for regular berths. The mound and the outer garden, especially the garden, looked like Hot Springs in the old days, with raw recruits everywhere.

Tom McCarthy was on the lookout for the boys with slugging ability, but not much could be accomplished on account of the dark day and poor light in the cage. Alumni Field is drying out rapidly and may be suitable for practice within a week, if the weather holds warm.

Providence Boy Seeks Outfield Berth

One promising youngster looking for an outfield job is Bunny Kempf, formerly of Hope Street High of Providence, who was second team quarterback on the gridiron last season.

Kempf served two years in the outer garden during his school career, and two more in the infield, so he looks to have a fairly good chance to revert around the field at University Heights pretty often this season.

CENTRE BASKETBALL TEAM BEATS HARVARD

The Centre College basketball team, led by Captain "Bo" McMillin, defeated Harvard, 41 to 34, in a game played in the Boston Garden last night. The game was classly contested all the way, the "Praying Colonels" showing the better teamwork.

FRED TONEY ONLY GIANT MISSING FROM CAMP

San Antonio, Tex., March 8.—Fred Toney, pitcher, is the only Giant now missing at the training camp here. The latest to report were: Joe Nagy, the $15,000 infielder secured from St. Paul; Dave Bancroft, shortstop, and Earl Smith, catcher.

Who's New in the National League

ANTON CHRISTIAN BROTTEM, Catcher Pittsburgh Pirates.

Born—Halstad, Minn., April 26, 1893.

Bats and throws—Right-handed.

Weight—175 pounds. Height—6 feet.

Club in 1920—Little Rock, Southern Association.

First engagement—Victoria, Northwestern League, 1913.

Clubs since then — Tacoma, 1914; Vancouver, 1915; Cardinals, 1916; Omaha, 1917; Little Rock and Cardinals, 1918; Little Rock, 1919-1920.

1920 record—Batted .353 in 136 games.

Note—Anton Christian Brottem was the hardest worker among the Southern Association backstops of 1920, catching 137 out of 151 games played by his team.

During many of these trials Miss Stirling had the benefit of playing against Bobby Jones and no American could wish a better foe. Britain's Amateur champion out of the field and in it, is a great sportsman.

Besides a few trial matches against the British ladies until May 1, before sailing for the Continent, Miss Stirling will play a number of matches in many hours of practice.

Some of the matches played by this pair have attracted large throngs in the East Lake links.

The quality of game exhibited will carry off the premier honors in the British tournament.

ONE LIKELY HANDICAP.

The only handicap that Miss Stirling will have to overcome is the cold and rainy weather in some portions of Europe during the early spring months. Her game is of a delicate nature, which requires perfect weather conditions for the best results. Should the wind factor enter into the game, those who know Miss Stirling's game best say that the American golfer will be handicapped if the weather is unfavorable.

The fact that Miss Stirling is leaving early enough to enable her to play in some durable practice before sailing for Turnberry is a factor that is expected to assist her to put up a good game in the tilt.

Climatic conditions are such over in Scotland that players are forced to remain there for six weeks in daily practice before being able to put in the first of their games there.

This the Atlanta girl will be able to take advantage of.

O'NEIL HIGH TARGET ON B. U. RIFLE TEAM

The highest average in the Boston University R. O. T. C. rifle team for last week was made by Frank P. O'Neil, who scored 194 points out of a possible 200. This is the best record yet made. A steady increase is shown by the team averages, which are as follows: First week, 848 out of a possible 1000; second week, 919 third week, 937, fourth week, 947.

A re-shoot with the Tufts team will probably be held as the R. U. rifle team has challenged the Tufts targets.

Stories of Famous Fights

—Burns Knocks Outs Squires—

By CHARLES E. VAN LOAN.

This is the forty-seventh of a series of "Old-Time Fights," written by authorities who were famous in their day. Others will follow.

The story is of Tommy Burns' knockout victory over Hal Squires at at Vernon, Cal., on July 4, 1907. The Australian had the appearance, talk and ways of a champion outside the ring, but he was a "frost" inside the ropes.

Poor old Bill Squires! He looked like a champion, he talked like a champion and he bet his money like a champion—but he has an ingrown jaw, and no fighter is stronger than his weakest point.

Squires looked like another Fitzsimmons, but he fought like another Palmer, minus the latter's ability to take the gaff. In two minutes and eight seconds the pride of Australia was flat on his broad back in mid ring, blinking his eyes at the sun and wondering what all the excitement was about.

When they started Squires drove Burns into a corner. Burns jumped out.

When Squires clinched again both men flailed away at close quarters. Burns ducked out of the clinch and as Squires posed Burns whipped in with a right cross which caught Squires on the side of the head and knocked him flat on his back.

The Australian was plainly dazed and his legs spread under him as he resumed.

Squires worked his way across the ring and scored two blows—the only two he landed during the fight. Burns, who could see that Squires was dazed, came in close and planted another right-hander on the jaw.

Squires dropped again. He came up slowly and raised his gloves in a feeble attempt at defence. A couple of feints and Squires lunged forward as if to clinch.

As he did, Burns crossed with the right, a short punch that clipped the Australian on the point of the chin.

Squires lunged forward, and before Burns could hit him collapsed and fell to the floor—out.

NEXT STORY—McCOY WALLOPS PLACKE.

Miss Stirling Sails in Quest of Golf Title

New York, March 8.—Aleta Stirling, women's national golf champion of the United States, sailed today on the Carmania in quest of the British title, to be contested for in the Turnberry tournament on May 30. The American girl golfer carries with her the confidence of Uncle Sam's links representative for a successful invasion of Great Britain.

She is the most finished links woman developed in the history of the sport in this country. Her British sisters will find her the most stubborn sort of a rival.

A match is never over until the final stroke has been scored when over the Southern girl's card is the line. It is this sound game which has made most American golfers successful in many hours of practice.

Some of the matches played by this pair have attracted large throngs in the East Lake links.

The quality of game exhibited will carry off the premier honors in the British tournament.

ONE LIKELY HANDICAP.

The only handicap that Miss Stirling will have to overcome is the cold and rainy weather in some portions of Europe during the early spring months. RECORD FIELD TEES OFF AT PINEHURST

High Scores Rule in First Half of Thirty-Six-Hole Qualifying Round

Pinehurst, N. C., March 8.—Pinehurst has been a gathering place for golfers for many years, but the assembly greens have the greatest party of golf career in the qualifying round of the annual spring tournament, the final eighteen holes of which were played today. Last year 319 golfers started in the event, and that was considered a high mark and broke all previous records for open tournaments. Today 344 golfers contested in the qualifying round. Although a record is of golf does not mean was a record in the number of golfers competing. Practically all of the large eastern clubs were represented, with forty Massachusetts players among the number. Among the well known golfers who are using the links for practice are Jerome D. Travers, Jesse Sweetser, Walter J. Travis, Fred Herreshoff, Max Marston, Jesse Guilford and Walter Hagen, who had done a 71 (-1) through.

High Wind Causes High Scoring

It was the first open team match to be played on the course this year, and the high wind which was blowing at the time made high scoring the order of the day. Hagen, Guilford and Marston, who represented the Engineers Club, were all tied for second at 78. Hagen is well known Massachusetts golfer, while Guilford, who is a member of the Engineers Club, was formerly connected with the Country Club, Brookline. Marston, who is now with the Oakley Country Club, Watertown, is a former Canadian champion.

Next in order came Travers, Sweetser and Travis, with 79. Travers, who is now connected with the Garden City Golf Club, Garden City, L. I., is a former Yale star. Sweetser is a member of the Essex County Club, Manchester, Mass., and Travis is with the Ekwanok Club, Manchester, Vt.

Herreshoff, who is a member of the Country Club, Brookline, and Walter J. Travis, who is with the Ekwanok Club, Manchester, Vt., were tied with 80. Herreshoff is a former Harvard star.

Elliott and Merriman Low Scores

Fred Elliott of Woodland Hills Club, who is fond of sharing with Buck Merriman of Waterbury the low score for the two rounds, he was 83 and did not do a three on its card. H. H. Wetherell of Woodland, with W. Travers of Newton, appeared certain to make the first sixteen, providing they do not blow upon the final holes. Leading players of Worcester, Springfield and Lowell are also in the running for the sixteen places.

Best of the Engineers Club were Hagen and Guilford, with 78. Hagen is well known Massachusetts golfer, while Guilford is a former Canadian champion.

Next in order came Travers, Sweetser and Travis, with 79. Travers, who is now connected with the Garden City Golf Club, Garden City, L. I., is a former Yale star. Sweetser is a member of the Essex County Club, Manchester, Mass., and Travis is with the Ekwanok Club, Manchester, Vt.

Herreshoff, who is a member of the Country Club, Brookline, and Walter J. Travis, who is with the Ekwanok Club, Manchester, Vt., were tied with 80. Herreshoff is a former Harvard star.

BABE BATS 'EM OVER SHREVEPORT BARRIERS

Shreveport, La., March 8.—Babe Ruth may be terribly fat and out of condition, but he still can hit the ball in the fashion which earned him fame last year and the season before. Seven drives over the right field fence, two over the centre field and clouts which resounded from all parts of the barrier, two numerous for counting, were the Bambino's contribution on his first day out at the Yankees' training grounds here.

MIDGET DICK KERR SIGNS HIS CONTRACT

Kosciusko, Tex., March 8.—Dick Kerr, White Sox pitching ace, who was listed as a holdout, has signed his Chicago contract tendered him by Manager Kid Gleason.

MITCHELL HAS 13 BOXMEN FOR BRAVES

Boston Manager Is Devoting Most of His Time to the Battery Candidates

By NICK FLATLEY.

Galvanic Tex Mason and Chief Mechanic F. Mitchell of the Braves settled right down today to the business of getting their athletes into shape for the important baseball campaign that automobiles, and H. M. Frederick, is the defendant, to have his machine pump right off the mark when he steps on the starting gas button.

As a result the training and calisthenics were conducted by Assistant Chief Richard Rudolph, who was in charge of the Newton Boys' Club, and the new assistant to Chief Mitchell. Rudolph was also with the Braves last season, and was a big help to Mitchell and Mason.

But for years dope has had a big edge on a wise old bird's ready for the first week of training, and it held true with the Athletics were ready, while the rooting was to the hard started. The pitchers have been at it for a week, and the fielders and batters have been going at it hammer and tongs for the past few days, so that all will be in the first thing on the program.

Spirit of Earnestness Pervades Camp

All hands seem perfectly satisfied with conditions, and there is a spirit of earnestness and hope that has been lacking in the last few Braves' spring camps. Everybody seems to go through the practised stunts with great enthusiasm, and will not be with the crossing of an athlete of the pasty breakdowns that follows the pursuit of a ball or a bat.

Yesterday day exercises consisted of golf for the players, with a little hunting for fun, and tomorrow a squad will play baseball. All the players are said to be in good condition, and Manager Mitchell is pleased at the way the recruits have responded to the work. Mitchell has been working out the pitchers with a view to getting them in shape for the opening game, and Johnson have received a big working out in the open air. Mitchell would not permit the pitchers to work out indoors, as a sore arm is absolutely barred in this particular camp.

Thirteen Pitchers on Hand Now

These pitchers will be worked a little but longer each day, and by the end of the week regulars, next week, the whole school of them will be ready to have something on the ball and make it break. Mitchell has seven right-handers and six southpaws.

Of the former Thomas and Johnson are now in the line. Hendren and Morgan are Townsend and Prendergast are pitchers, while Ring and Ryan are left-handers. The latter two will be given a very careful looking over and the chances are they will have to go to the minors before the season opens, but as things look now they will be kept with the club for the present, as they are young and have a chance to develop.

"YES, I'm afraid, too," he read on. "Because I know the rank and file can't stand the truth. I wonder how it would work to be honest with children. Could they stand it? Custom, tradition, are powerful things. But on the other hand, I find it hard to believe that lies are sound things. Ma don't find them much use as governing principles in business. Suppose I were to bring the little girls here into my study and explain to them that Tim runs and robs the city because I can't bear to hurt Emma. . . ."

Calversly, at this, came to himself.

"I'm sorry," he said, simply; and brought her the book.

She let it drop on the others in her lap, pressed a hand to her eyes. "You're tired," he said, very gently.

"No. Oh, I am, of course, but that isn't what it is. I was trying to think. I don't quite know how we got where we are. But since we have, * * * She was looking swiftly through one of the folders.

"MacIntyre meant something like that, of course," said he, "when he told me—how did he put it? Oh, 'I've got a toe in the crack of the Century Age. That's where I was smart, twelve years ago.'"

"Timothy MacIntyre said that to you?"

"Yes. I was interviewing him. But they didn't put that part of it in the paper. He was drunk."

Her Head Dropped

Her head dropped now. She fingered one of the papers.

"I'm trying to think," she said. "It seems so be rushing along faster than I—still—Oh, well, I'm going to show you this."

It was a half-sheet of paper, dated six years earlier.

"Father wrote out the statement—"

"Yes, I can see it's in his hand" "And made Mr. MacIntyre sign it."

"I hereby acknowledge the receipt on this day of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) in cash from Harvey O'Neil, general manager of County Railways, paid me as a bribe, in return for which sum I agree to vote the Mergenthal three-cent fare bill passed this day by the City Council.

"Timothy J. MacIntyre.

Calversly whistled.

"There are some others. Mr. MacIntyre knew one thing about fathers—"

"Yes, I—"

"And father simply decided to get the whip-hand. He told me, before he—died."

She watched him as she said this, a nervous alertness, almost an eagerness, in the blue eyes.

Then she pressed on—he found her bewilderingly direct now; unquestionably there was in her a strain of the fighting Jim Canley—with this:

"And here's something else I was trying to read, since we're here.

"The document was in a long envelope, addressed:

"To my daughter Miriam. Not to be opened until after my death.—James H. Canley."

"Read it!" she said, in that same low, breathless way. "It's an elaboration of the other. Father hated hypocrisy."

It was written, with many erasures-and interlinings, in the now familiar hand:

"My Dear Girl," it ran, "I've just finished Phil Hemming's autobiography. You're asleep now. The nurse thinks I am. But this book has stirred me all up. And a find it so often these last few years. I turn to you. I want to talk to you. I can do it this way, perhaps, with a pen. I don't seem to have the courage to say these things by word of mouth. Yet I hate to go leaving them unsaid. The end is very near, little girl—nearer than you know.

"About Phil Hemming's book. From cover to cover the thing is one huge lie. In the first place, it isn't his. He hired a fellow to write it. That's the way it's usually done, you know.

"Reading this poor stuff—the book is all rigged up to make you think Phil's the kind of correct person everybody wants to be thought—makes me wonder about other autobiographies and biographies. It makes me wonder about a lot of the famous figures of history. It's clear to me—I've known great statesmen, business leaders, others—that they were none of them what people think. You've got to turn to the Old Testament, Shakespeare, Benvenuto, St. Simon and Machiavelli to realize the human drama and the stuff men and women are made of. Reading Phil's mess of lies—written by a hired hand—I turn with a good deal of affection to Benvenuto and Machiavelli. They were honest men. They didn't lie, they told what happened, as they saw it. If only we could all do that, we'd come a lot closer to a workable understanding of life.

Tried Many Times

"I've tried, so many times, these last few years, to write down what I think, or feel, about all this pussling business—all this big mess of lies of living, really. I've wanted to tell just what my experiences has been. You know. We've talked it. It's been thrilling, you see, like war that looked at close to, it's every bit as ugly as war.

"Those reformers that have sprung up so thick lately, attacking all our business leaders—everybody who was a, few lights and was a little money—they're right enough, as far as they really go.

"Perhaps they'll finally prove to be really destructive forces. Though I doubt that. As far back as I've read, there's always been about as many reformers in the history of a population. They're always found, through history, in about the same attitude, saying about the same thing in the language of their particular time. About three-eighths of 1 per cent, of any people, any time, are reformers, I should say.

TWIST the old song a bit—and it says, "The jolly YOUNG pedagogue" instead of the "old!"

"And she sang every night as she went to bed, 'Let us spread sunshine below.'

She taught her scholars the rule of three, Writing and reading and history, too; And she took the little ones on her knee, For a kind young heart in her breast had she." Shall an idol go unsung—languish in the dark with no lamp burned at her shrine, with no golden offering to clothe her, no verse writ in her praise? For this jolly, young pedagogua, known in many a tiny, rosy mouth as "teacher," is an idol there (in that little heart)—no many times! Her eyes seem the bluest and sweetest.

Do you ever go to see your baby's "teacher," or do you leave her unsung and UNREPAID.

I said: "I beg your pardon, but your contribution was a five-cent piece." He made some remark about being funny how much we received, and reluctantly went into his pocket and laid down another nickel and then demanded his one cent back, which he got. That is about the stingiest act I ever experienced.

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER LXXXIV

FRANK was the first ashore after his ship arrived. He hurried to the offices of Montgomery & Company just as Dominguez was phoning the Brazilian secret police to arrest DeVera. Gomez and Harwood. He hurried with Dominguez to join the police who were being sent to surround DeVera's home. Three were the automobiles crowded with men which Ann saw from her window. She did not recognize Frank among them and still thought him "way, 'way up North in New York.

One of the guards posted in DeVera's grounds fired at the approaching autos and the men in the march ines returned the shot. Ann from her window saw the guards reel and fall, and faster came the crowded cars. DeVera, Gomez and Harwood, hearing the noise, rushed from the room in which they had been talking. DeVera realized at once what was happening and rushed at once to a closet in which were stacked rifles for just such an emergency. Every man servant in his [illegible] had been a former soldier and all were really his body guard.

At a whistle from their master they each seized a gun and rushed to the front veranda opening fire at the oncoming automobiles. Harwood with all his failings was no coward, but was doing some quick thinking of his own about this time. His main object was to get back to his yacht and away, for he knew the jig was up, and with an eye to the future he did not wish to be incriminated.

He thought he would quickly slip out of the back way during the excitement, but first he would find Ann and offer to take her home with him aboard his yacht. Ann now recognized Frank among the men scurrying out of the automobiles into the shrubbery and returning the fire from the house. She saw him stagger for an instant and then fall. And as she wrung her hands she felt a man's hand upon her shoulder.

IN spite of the physician's orders Sophia Throckmorton insisted on having a brief business talk with her son the next day.

"Telegraph Henry Pelham to come on at once," she ordered. "It is," she added, "what your father would have wished."

Her children, listening to her, noticed that already she spoke of her husband as if he were dead.

They waited in stunned helplessness for the period between the sending of the telegram and the arrival of their father's partner. Already the disgrace from which their parent had fled was haunting them.

"Of course," people are talking of Dad's failure," Mary said when she and Peter had left their mother's room and stood together in the hall. "Servants always talk—and they must have overheard some of the things that mother said when she met that letter."

Peter regarded her sombrely. She seemed to have aged during the past twenty-four hours.

A wave of pity such as he had not known for months moved him to hold his arms out to the stricken girl.

"Molly!" he faltered, "I am sorry for what I said yesterday!"

"Was it only yesterday?" she murmured. Then—"Oh, my dear—I must have been crazy when I struck you! Peter—forgive me!"

He put his arms about her and drew her close to him, kissing her as he would have kissed an unhappy child.

"I guess we've both been crazy, dear little sister," he said. "And—Heaven help us!—the rest of the world seems crazy, too."

Gentle with Their Mother

Wretched as they were, they found comfort in the companionship of each other. It is a relief to have a person to whom to voice one's consternations and fears.

With their mother, the son and daughter were very gentle and outwardly optimistic. They strove to conceal their nervousness from her watch, at last, Henry Pelham arrived.

Sophia wanted to see him alone at first, so he was shown up to her room. But he had been there only a few minutes when she rang her bell and ordered the maid to tell Mr. Peter and Miss Mary to come to her.

"Mr. Pelham wants you two children to hear all he has to say," she explained as the young people entered.

Henry Pelham was very grave, very business-like.

"I was scarcely surprised when I received your wire," he said bluntly. "I have seen for months how matters were going. I warned Throckmorton last Summer that his family was living at a rate that would impoverish even a rich man."

Mary spoke. "Dad loved us better than himself," she stirred tremulously.

"He certainly did," the man of business agreed. "But even he reached his limit. He could stand most things. Disgrace he could not face. So he has—gone."

Peter started to his feet.

Must Find Him

"But," he protested, "we must find him! We are not going to let him disappear as if we cared nothing about him. He is our father. We have waited until you came before taking any steps—because we wanted to avoid publicity, wanted to act as you thought best, since father asked this of mother. But surely now—"

Pelham held up a warning hand. "Not so fast, my lad! Excuse me, but I happen to know that the worst thing you could do now would be to start any search for your father. It would only precipitate the disgrace he fled from. Moreover, your search would be fruitless. In fact, if I know Throckmorton as I think I do, he has made it impossible for you to trace him.

"I have here," he said, "a wire I received from your father on the day of his disappearance. It is dated from New York and contains directions which you would do well to follow."

With a horrified and painful interest the son and daughter read the typed words on the Western Union Telegraph sheet held out to them.

"Fleeing to prevent scandal. Am facing the end. Debts must be paid. House must be sold. Children will have to go to work."

That was all. But in the terse sentences Peter and Mary almost heard their father's voice.

A lady was trying to persuade her five-year-old boy to go to bed, adding by way of argument that "the little chickens want to roost at sunset."

CHAPTER XXVIII.

TWO days after the funeral, which had taken place from Calvary, and not from St. John's, Hodder was no little astonished to receive a note from Eldon Parr's secretary requesting the rector to call in Park street. In the same mail was a letter from Alison. "I have had," she wrote, "a talk with my father. The initiative was his. I should not have thought of speaking to him of my affairs so soon after Preston's death. It seems that he but gleamed out of the shadowy caverns into which they had sunk, unyielding, indomitable in torment —eyes of a spirit rebellious for the flames. . . .

This spirit somehow produced the sensation of its being separated from the body, for the movement of the hand, inviting Hodder to beat himself, seemed almost automatic.

"I understand," said Eldon Parr, "that you wish to marry my daughter."

"It is true that I am to marry Alison," Hodder answered, "and that I intended, later on, to come to inform you of the fact."

He did not mention the death of Preston. Condolences, under the circumstances, were utterly out of the question.

To Support Her

"How do you propose to support her?" the banker demanded.

"She is of age, and independent of you. You will pardon me if I reply that this is a matter between ourselves," Hodder said.

"I had made up my mind that the day she married you I would not only disinherit her, but refuse absolutely to have anything to do with her."

"If you cannot perceive what she perceives, that you have already by your own life cut her off from you absolutely and that seeing her will not mend matters while you remain relentless, nothing I can say will convince you," Hodder did not speak rebukingly. The utter uselessness of it was never more apparent. The case was condemned beyond all present reprieve, at least.

"She left me," exclaimed Eldon Parr, bitterly.

"She left you, to save herself."

"We need not discuss that."

"I am far from wishing to discuss it," Hodder replied. "I do not know why you have asked me to come here, Mr. Parr. It is clear that your attitude has not changed since our last conversation. I tried to make it plain to you why the church could not accept your money. Your own daughter cannot accept it."

"There was a time," retorted the banker, "when you did not refuse to accept it."

"Yes," Hodder replied, "that is true." It came to him vividly then that it had been Alison herself who had cost the enlightening gleam which revealed his inconsistency. But he did not defend himself.

"I can see plainly in all this, Mr. Hodder, but a species of insanity," said Eldon Parr, and there crept into his tone both querulousness and intense exasperation. "In the first place, you insist upon marrying my daughter when neither she nor you have any dependable means of support.

Rules of the Movie Play Title Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Movie Play Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser (regardless of age) residing or sojourning at town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred nineteen cash awards will be given these contestants or their nearest relatives who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the 60 pictures to be published one each day consecutively in the Daily American and Sunday Advertiser.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 60 picture presentations of Movie Play Titles, one picture to be printed each day in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture, Sunday, February 27, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every effort is allowed to all members of a family to solve one another on a title basis. But each must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, and the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, i. e., do not write 10 names and another set 5 pieces of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the largest number of solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie, awards will be made on the basis of earliest postmark and clear, concise style if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. Keep your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Play Title Headquarters at the Boston American office in person or by other or mail or by express within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Play Title Editor, No. 36 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or printed in the upper left hand corner.

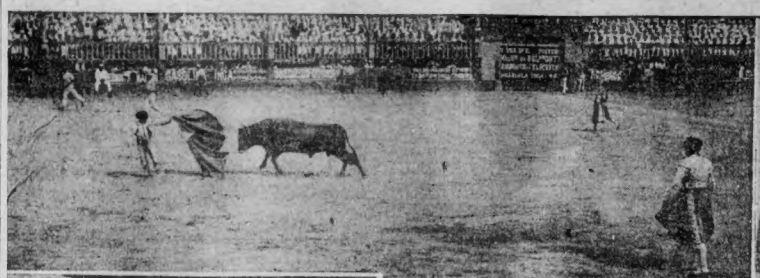
As all picture in the test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the packages be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes in the postoffice as first-class matter. The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which the fee for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Movie Titles will be printed in the Boston American and in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. This list appearing will contain among others the correct titles.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Movie Play Title Editor, No. 36 Summer street, Boston 9, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply, or they may phone Main 5180 or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make such changes or additions in these conditions that may seem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Play Title Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

DETAILS OF THE MOVIE PLAY TITLE TEST, WITH NAMES OF THE CO-OPERATING THEATRES, WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 4.



BLUEJACKETS DON'T LIKE BULL FIGHTS—Sailors from the American fleet at Lima, Peru, find the national sport of that country uninteresting, although seven horses and a number of bulls were killed in the course of the fight. MAKING MARKSMEN OF U. S. JACKIES—Here's the rifle range at the famous naval station down on the bay of Guantanamo, Cuba, where every year Uncle Sam sends his embryo sailors to be polished into shape for service on board the big battleships, submarines or cruisers. Rifle shooting is one of the prime requisites of that job, and here's where the lads learn how. (Wide World.)

TODAY'S AID TO BEAUTY

Hair is by far the most conspicuous thing about us and is probably the most easily damaged by bad or careless treatment. If we are very careful in hair washing, we will have practically no hair troubles. An especially fine shampoo for the scalp, one that brings out all the natural beauty of the hair, that dissolves and entirely removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt, can easily be used at trifling expense by simply dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox (which you can get at any druggist's) in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup, enough—on the contrary also is anxious to return it to the impetuous young man who sent it to her, and the soiree for wedding night to do so.

enough—so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. This chemical not only loosens all impurities and creates a soothing, cooling lather. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and plain, while the hair takes on the glossy richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo, arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

"GERTIE" AND HER GARTER FUNNY

By FRED J. McISAAC,
Dramatic Editor.

"Gertie's Garter," a new farce which A. H. Woods desires the public to understand is far more audacious than "Up in Mabel's Room," "Ladies' Night" or "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," began an engagement at the Plymouth Theatre last night.

This entertainment was chosen by Saturday's Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple, has proven so successful it has been decided to continue them indefinitely. The "Fairy and the Air" has been selected for next Saturday's program and will be presented continuous at 10:45, 12:15 and 2:15 p. m.

Originally the piece was titled "Getting Gertie's Garter." Then it was changed to "Up in a Hayrnow," back again to the original title, but finally the verb was eliminated. If anything else was eliminated from the entertainment, we haven't missed.

PLEASED THE BANKERS.

The idea of a farce of this kind is to invent a more or less innocent situation and have a performer, preferably a girl, say or do something innocently which has a double meaning to the average masculine mind. There are many of these lines in "Gertie's Garter" (usually the intent is so broad that we miss the second meaning is inexcusable.

The bankers, who had checked their wives' names, were in a jovial mood, and no "double entendre" escaped them. The shrieks of laughter as each of the literary gems was trotted out would have condemned a far more innocent entertainment than "Gertie" for bootlegging indecency.

"Gertie's Garter" as a farce is away ahead of "Mabel's Room," and several of its predecessors. Quite apart from the naughty lines which the characters usually exported directly at the audience with the most brazen assurance, the thing is ingenious, the situations are frequently novel, and the performers are extremely capable.

Regarding Gertie and the garter, nobody readily removes it from the lady's limb. On the contrary she is Another young woman named Hattie assists in concealing the plot. Hattie is the wife of the person who gave Gertie the garter, a diamond studded affair with his photo on it. Discovering his perfidy, she is determined to get herself compromised with some man for revenge and one man who looks like youth, also married, named Lorin Raker, whose work reminds you of Ernest Truex, does the fetching.

When Fattie, who it is played by Dorothy Mackaye, and Lorin get up in the hayrow in the second act the dialogue becomes speckled and the situations delightful.

ENTIRE COST EXCELLENT.

Miss Mackaye betrays a talent for low comedy in this scene and in the last act which has unexpected and delightful. Adele Rolland as a French maid, Donald MacDonald as the garter giver, Grace Carlyle as his wife calls him, Eleanor Dawn and Louis Kimball are all good farcours. Walter Gale's "Pete the Cabby" is killer who always happens in when situations look risky and whose expression on these occasions, "I always like to see the young folks have a good time," put the audience in a mood to give away money, was as funny and clever as he always is.

Mr. H. Woods has brought a wonderful lot of clothes for the girls and and some unusually good settings prepared.

WED IN OFFICE OF HAVERHILL MAYOR

Haverhill, March 8.—Mayor Parkman D. Fiske was moved up into the office at City Hall for a wedding ceremony, City Clerk William J. Doherty officiating at the marriage of Miss Maria R. Rigazio and Ernesto Relletti. Both were born in Italy, but the bride has been in this country only about a week, coming from Brazil to become the wife of Relletti, who has been here some years. The bridegroom is thirty-one years old and a shoemaker.

SOMERVILLE CHIEF URGED TO BAN EXPECTORATION

Expectorating in public places in Somerville has come under the ban of the Somerville Board of Health, who have voted to call the attention of Chief of Police Kendall to the violations of the law committed by men spitting in public places. The board finds that violations occur frequently in public squares where young men congregate and mention such places as Union and Davis squares.

Other Theatres

SHUBERT THEATRE—The Greenwich Village Follies, 1921 edition, began an engagement at the Majestic Theatre last night before a large and appreciative audience. The piece will be reviewed in detail in Wednesday's American.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA — It would seem that Mack Sennett is determined to help in reducing divorce in the world. His "Married Life," it will be remembered, showed the folly of the most marital misunderstandings, Ben Turpin being the agent of reconciliation. "Love, Honor and Behave," a First National Attraction, which we saw at Gordon's Scollay Square Olympia Theatre shows the folly of most auspicions.

MAJESTIC THEATRE — "Earthbound," a photoplay dealing with spiritualism, is occupying the Majestic Theatre this week. It is a Goldwyn production.

OLD SOUTH THEATRE — Long after the last scene of "The Faith Healer" had faded out at Gordon's Old South Theatre yesterday, the captivating and fascinating story of the picture provides lingered in the memory of spectators. Those who saw "The Miracle Man" compared it favorably with that famous production.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA — Constance Talmadge in the photoplay, "Dangerous Business," is holding all-week attraction at Gordon's Olympia. This is a version from the celebrated Mrs. Buchanan's novel, "The Chessboard," adapted for the screen by John Emerson and Anita Loos.

GAIETY THEATRE—Harry Lander and his brother Willie are at the Gaiety this week with the Lander Singer Show. Harry Lander is the man who created a sensation along the Columbia wheel with his singing of his funny tramp character. Jack Singer succeeded in handing the biggest sensation on the wheel when he paid $5,000 for the privilege of having Tarzan, the trained ape, on with this season's attraction. Singer has a chorus of real stage beauties. Sam Wilson, who sings the melodies, and Ameta Fynes, dancer, are also featured.

COLUMBIA THEATRE—Last evening was amateur night at Loew's Columbia Theatre and Sam Cohen's amateur kept the audience convulsed with laughter. The program for the initial three days of this week comprises four acts of snappy and novel vaudeville, the screening of Mack Sennett's comedy production, "Deep Waters" and Alice Lake in "Shore Acres."

ORPHEUM THEATRE—A delightful program is being offered the initial half of this week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre with a delightful array of novel and entertaining vaudeville. Frank Babbit's amusing comedy, "Bit, 'N' Quit," is the headliner. Other acts include Josselyn and Dore, Leslie and Green, Grace and Carolina, Dancers de Luxe, a spectacular tersichorean revue, and four talented Loyolas. The motion picture is the latest Paramount offering of Conway Tearle in "Society Snobs."

KEITH'S THEATRE—"What a bide fair to be the supreme dramatic triumph of the current season is being offered this week by Lola Fisher in "Honors Are Even," comprising the tenth week, a delightful stay at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre promises to break the season's record.

FORMER BRITISH SPY TO SPEAK BEFORE CHAMBER

Sir Paul Dukes, a member of the British secret service, who was knighted for his work in Russia, comes at one time he was actually a member of the Russian Soviet government, will be the speaker at the Boston Chamber of Commerce assembly luncheon, Thursday, in place of Charles P. Kettering of Dayton, according to an announcement by E. Fred Cullen, chairman of the committee on meetings and assemblies of the chamber.

FR. GRIFFIN COUNCIL PROTESTS EXECUTIONS

Father Griffin Council, Dorchester, unanimously voted that the following protest be sent to the President, Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and Hiram W. Johnson and Congressman James A. Galvin.

"Protest execution of Irishmen in Cork as violation of Hague Convention, 1907. Miss surrendered prisoners of war. Our nation ought to demand observance of warfare in land in accordance with provisions of convention. We request such action."

WIFE TAKES POISON IN FIT OF DESPONDENCY

Mrs. Mildred McDonald, forty-six years old, of No. 18 Gough street, West End, in a fit of despondency due to ill-health, took poison in her home, and then notified her husband in the same room. Mr. McDonald called a doctor, who administered first aid, and then sent the woman to the Relief Station, where it is reported she will recover. Mrs. McDonald had been despondent since her return to the City Hospital a few days ago, where she had been treated for a broken collar bone.

Miss Cassidy is regarded as one of the most beautiful chorus girls of stagedom.

Plays That Remain

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" continues breaking records at the Hollis Street Theatre, where the fourth week of the engagement began with a performance last evening to the customary capacity audience.

COLONIAL THEATRE—George M. Cohan's comedy-drama in the musical comedy, "Mary," began the concluding week of their engagement at the Colonial Theatre last evening.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—Widespread interest is being manifested in the engagement of "Aphrodite" at the Boston Opera House, which started on its last week last evening. Judging from the tremendous attendance the past week this colossal spectacle will surpass many previous records for theatrical receipts in a Boston playhouse.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Passion," the marvelous photodrama, produced in the Continental plan, Pola Negri, began its third and last week at the Tremont Theatre last night. A capacity audience was enthusiastic about the film spectacle and the beautiful star. "Passion" presents in wonderfully vivid and realistic fashion the story of humble beauty who becomes the mistress of a king of France, and the real ruler of the country during some of the most hectic days in French history.

GLOBE THEATRE — "The Old Homestead" is now in its twenty-first week of its brief stay in the Hub, and many fond memories have been revived at the Globe Theatre in the hearts of those who witnessed it over thirty years ago when it was the talk of all rural communities.

WILBUR THEATRE—Next week will be the last of the engagement being filled by William Courtleigh and Jessa," at the Wilbur Theatre, where it is being presented by A. L. Jones and Morris Green.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—The tremendous popularity which has at-tended William Courtleigh and Julia Fisher in "Honors Are Even," continues into its tenth week, a delightful stay at Selwyn's Park Square Theatre promises to break the season's record.

MELODY AND MIRTH AT KEITH'S

William and Gordon Dooley featured an attractive program at B. F. Keith's Theatre this week in a sketch entitled, "Two Vagrants." They are accompanied by Arthur Hartley. Helen Patterson, William Foran and a Girlie Sextette.

Ruby Norton, "The Little Big Star of Song," accompanied by Clarence Senna at the piano, treats the audience to some good music.

Others on the program are Margaret Taylor, "The Dainty Little Miss," performing on the tightrope; Russell and Devitt, clever dancing; William Sully and Genevieve Houghton in "Calf Love," with songs and dances; Bert Levy, "The International Artist-entertainer; Alan Gerard and Mary Casey in "Bidding Her Good Night," and the Ekoill Brothers, masters of equilibrium. Also Kinograms and Topics of the ay.

Why So Many Public Men Fear to Serve the People

Editor of Boston American:

When Judge Landis fined the Standard Oil $29,240,000, two things were obvious to any thoughtful person.

First, that the Standard Oil would manage to evade the penalty for extortion they had practised on the public through the political influence they exercise by means of their attorneys' office;

Second, that they would some day try to punish Judge Landis for his courageous stand in behalf of the public and for his exposure of their rascality.

Sure enough, they did evade the penalty; and, sure enough, they are now beginning to strike back at Landis.

A committee of Congress has been secured and is apparently willing to try to impeach Judge Landis.

The charges against him are not very clear, and not at all serious, but nevertheless the Standard Oil will stop at nothing to try to get its revenge.

Judge Landis is accused of too much leniency toward young offenders. The question of his lack of leniency toward the Standard Oil, an old and hardened offender, is not discussed in this connection.

Judge Landis is also accused of impropriety in endeavoring to straighten out the baseball tangle while he is occupying his position as judge on the bench, and thereby, according to the Standard Oil critics, serving other interests than the public's.

Of course, if Judge Landis were serving the Standard Oil interests, secretly and sinisterly, and receiving the usual "certificates of deposit" therefor, or if he were serving any of the great corporations, as, unhappily, so many of our judges do—no objection would be raised on the part of the financial powers, or on the part of their committees in Congress, or on the part of the mercenary press which the great corporations control.

Everything then would go smoothly for Judge Landis.

If he would only excuse old offenders and hardened criminals, including those great corporations which are both old offenders and hardened criminals, he would be permitted to be lenient to young men who have been misled or who have committed, through youth and inexperience, their first offense against the law.

Of course, the big corporations would not approve of this leniency, but they would tolerate it if only Judge Landis would show consideration for them.

What a satire on democracy this government of ours is getting to be; what a farce on liberty; what a burlesque of equality!

Not only do most of our public men no longer seek to serve the people, but most of them even fear to serve the people lest the vengeance of the all powerful financial interests be visited upon them.

See what is happening to Judge Landis—honest, incorruptible judge, conscientiously serving the public in the old-fashioned American way—abused, vilified, threatened with impeachment.

See what is happening to Mayor Hylan of New York—bravely fighting the people's battle, opposing the greedy public service corporations in their attempts to plunder the public.

See how he is attacked by corporation attorneys of the Untermyer and Whitman brand.

See how he is dragged before Grand Juries in the hope of finding some flimsy pretext on which they can bring some sort of an indictment of someone somewhere in his administration.

See how he is maligned and misrepresented by the prostitute press of New York earning the subsidies of the corporations by attacking the enemies of the corporations.

It takes great courage to stand firmly for the people against the great power and the vindictive attacks of the privileged interests. Every year there are fewer and fewer public men willing to make the sacrifice.

Every year your government, citizens, is becoming less of a democracy and more of an autocracy of wealth and privilege.

And the fault, citizens, is yours. The blame will be yours if this great American Republic goes the way of other great democratic governments of the past and gradually surrenders its popular liberties to an oligarchy of wealth and power.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Distance From Old World to the New

The papers the other day announced that the Marquis of Carisbrooke, a grandson of Queen Victoria, a cousin of King George the Fifth, and a brother of the Queen of Spain, sailed for England from New York on the steamer Aquitania, and had in mind, when he had toddled along to the other side, to go to work.

Work, mind you. He was going to find a regular job in a company and have a desk and write letters and see business men and everything.

The remarkable element in this news item is that it is remarkable. All the newspapers played it up. One had the story boxed on the first page and a picture of his excellency, or his highness, or his grace, or whatever his proper title may be, smiling robustiously at the prospect of doing some work and taking himself off the back of the folks that had been "carrying" him.

This is funny to Americans, but it is deadly serious to titled Englishmen. Which illustrates the difference between the two hemispheres. Yet many American snobs envy or emulate those titled parasites.

The difference is a spiritual something. The two continents are separated not only by an ocean of salt water, but by a vaster space of salted preconceptions. In their subconsciousness the average European and the average American are more than 3,000 miles apart.

For the aim of the American, that unto which he takes it for granted he is born, is to DO something. The ambition of the European is to ENJOY something.

The Great Ones of over yonder are great in proportion to the distance they can trace back their pedigree before they come to an ancestor who did some honest work.

The whole aristocratic class of the Old World exists and flourishes because all, rich and poor, high and low, over there accept the idea that the work of the world is done by the poor boobs who are not fortunate or clever enough to ride on other people's backs.

That is what is the matter with Europe. That is the basis of the Class feeling. That is the root of Caste. And that is why they have there Monarchy and Socialism, which spring from the same root.

America's word is Achievement. Its Great Ones have Done something, good or bad. Work is the universal yardstick. Next to health and love, work is the greatest human blessing.

More Truth Than Poetry

A Pretty Good Day in Spots

By S. E. KISER

WELL, this is quite a day in some respects;
The weather isn't perfect everywhere;
Existence still is marred by some defects,
Greed still is making trouble here and there;
Men keep declaring war, for gain or spite,
Ignoring all that we have said about it,
But all the same today, in spots, is bright;
I don't know how we'd get along without it.

OPPRESSION hasn't been abolished yet,
Fanatics still are busy sowing hate;
Some places are too dry and some too wet,
There's many a man who's weary of his mate;
The hypocrites are yawping as of yore,
And fondling sin in secret where they may;
Men rise with plans to tax us more and more,
But, anyhow, I'm glad it is Today.

MEN think that they grow wise by reading what
They thought before they set themselves to read;
They listen to the man who speaks their thought,
No other can induce them to give heed;
Old prejudices linger; Progress takes
Too long to pass a given point; the way
Is cluttered by the wreckage Folly makes,
But, anyhow, I'm glad it is Today.

Letters to the Editor

A Dangerous Proposal

Editor Boston American:

Almost any woman (or man) who is out of work might be sent to prison for an indefinite term if a bill now before our Legislature should be passed without amendment.

The supposed object of House Bill 593 is to make it easier to shut up women who are suspected of being prostitutes, but who cannot be proved to be such. The present law, which it is proposed to amend allows the shutting up of any idle and disorderly person who neglects his employment and habitually misspends his time by frequenting tipping houses, gaming houses, etc. The proposed law provides for shutting up any such person who is without employment and who habitually misspends his time. This leaves it entirely to the magistrate to decide what is a misuse of time.

A magistrate whose opinions are colored by the old blue laws might hold that a girl was habitually misspending her time if she went too often to the movies, or a young man if he loitered with his friends on a street corner—not a commendable way of spending the time, certainly, but not bad enough to justify sending a citizen to prison. It might even be held a misuse of time to read such literature or advocate such ideas as a magistrate disapproved.

Under the vague wording of the proposed measure, grave injustice could be done, and a wide field for blackmail would be opened to the police.

A hearing on House Bill 593 will be given at the State House by the Committee on Legal Affairs on March 10 at 10:30, in room 249. Those who see the dangers of the proposed clause should be present to urge its amendment.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

OF HIM who passed.
AROUND THE corner.
AND HAD gone.
THERE LAY a grief.
THAT NO one knew.
EXCEPT HIMSELF.
AND I who write.
THESE FUTILE lines.
CAN SAY no more.
AND IN my heart.
MIXED WITH the grief.
THERE LIES my thanks.
FOR WHAT he did.
AND LIES a hope.
THAT HE will know.
WHAT'S IN my heart.
LIES IN the hearts.
OF MILLIONS more.

I THANK you.

WAKE UP AND STAND UP

Straighten up, old man; those shoulders are sagging a bit.

You desire to appear as young as possible, to give the impression that you still have pep and ginger, to show you are far from a has-been.

To be successful, you must stand upright.

If you have been allowing yourself to slouch (you do not like that word, but it expresses the effect you produce when you sit or stand in slovenly attitude), you may find it takes considerable effort to square your shoulders.

Raising your shoulders is bound to make you go at your work as if you intended to accomplish something.

To sit and stand straight helps you to be of more service to your employer and yourself, for you will have more life.

Galli-Curci's Ideal Home Life

Of all the great, I know none whose home life is more idealistic than Amelita Galli-Curci's. With the maid who is almost a daughter, with the latest stray dog or cat, she lives the simple life. She is always looking over old mementoes, scrapbooks, autographs, pictures. At every turn the camera is in evidence. She takes dozens of snaps every week. The diva is an ardent automobilist. On seeing her at the wheel, with her friends and family, singing and shouting at the top of her voice, who would think that a fortune is paid for every one of her recitals? Once on a little Summer vacation a trip was made to a dairy, and Galli-Curci laughingly dipped her face in the cream tub and scribbled her name on the walls.—Charles D. Isaacson in March Hearst's.

DISTANCE FOUND TO REMOTE STARS

By Edgar L. Larkin

Director Mt. Lowe Observatory

PLEASE tell how the distances to the stars are determined. Can you see by telescope those stars so far away that light has not reached us? If so, why cannot you tell certainly if Mars is inhabited?—G. Andrews, Brooklyn.

Distances to the stars are determined by plane trigonometry on the basis principle: Given a side and two angles, the other sides and angle can always be computed in any triangle.

One side of the triangle used in measuring distances of the stars is the distance of the sun's centre from the earth's centre which is known with great accuracy to be 92,897,416 miles. The length of this line, as seen by an observer at the star looking back this way, is the parallax of the given star. Set the telescope on a star tonight, clamp it and go away for six months.

Telescope Moves

Return and look into the instrument. Then the star will be on the X or crossing of two spider's threads, as when left standing. But the telescope has moved to the other side of the orbit of the earth, a distance across it of twice the sun's distance, or 185,794,832 miles.

Try this test during 120 years and then you may find a star whose image has shifted away from the exact X. Get a micrometer and use a high magnifying power, and measure the displacement. If you try this out on the nearest known star the shifting may be 1.5 seconds of arc. The parallax technically is half that, 0.75 seconds. Then 92,897,416 miles dwindles to 0.75, or 3-9ths seconds as seen by a telescope at the distance of the nearest sun to ours, Alpha Centauri.

Great Accuracy

Of course, the astronomer had to have a very accurate filar micrometer to measure the angle moved over to bring the minute point image of the star back to X. For 120 years they had no micrometers delicate enough. Photography now detects much smaller parallaxes.

These remote suns cannot be seen by the retina of the human eye in any telescope yet made, but the same telescope concentrates short ultra-violet energy waves on the new sensitive plates, and long exposure enables the tiny waves to make the very minute images of hundreds of millions of invisible suns.

No telescope, not even the 100-inch, can either see or photograph an object as small as a human at the distance of Mars.

FILIPINO GIRLS ARE CLEVER CO-EDS

By Edith Davids

Manila, P. I., December, 1920.

"HONK! Honk!" A flash of foam-green, the glint of a gold comb above lustrous ebon hair, showed as an automobile passed under the palms of Calle Padre Faure. A young girl, alighting, ascended a broad flight of steps. In the fairy-like Filipino costume, with transparent winged sleeves, she made a picture framed by the stately white-pillared portico. I read the inscription above:

"University of the Philippines—1908." The gift of America to Filipino young manhood and womanhood.

"Where will that young girl be going?" I asked Mr. Felipe Estella, secretary of the University.

"To the pharmacy class!" in answer to my gesture of surprise, he replied: "Oh, pharmacy is the favorite course with our young women. In the first-year class there are ninety-six girls and three young men! Every year the university graduates from that course a larger number of young women."

Other Surprises

That made the first surprise. Dr. Concha was the second. Very dainty her figure, slight and small, looked in her white dress. Big dark eyes were set in a face sparkling with animation. Dr. Concha has been a member of the medical faculty of the University for six years.

"But I am not the only one," she protested. "Dr. Mendosa, who was the first woman to graduate in medicine here, in 1913, is a member of the faculty, too. She is in the United States now. And for two years we have had, also, another Filipino woman physician teaching in the university.

"Two dozen Filipino girls have been graduated at the College of Medicine and Surgery—six in last year's class."

Dr. Concha pointed with pride to the University's Portia: "She has passed the bar examination and is at present legal adviser to the Women's Club of Manila. Another is taking our law course now. Every year at least one of our sex, who has studied law in a private school, passes the bar examination. A woman is employed in the Bureau of Justice as assistant attorney."

A girl engineer! A Filipino girl engineer! That was the most surprising of the university's several surprises.

Dr. Concha informed me that a considerable proportion of the instructors in the University are Filipino women:

"Mathematics and the sciences, they teach."

Amazing Transformation

Our system of universal public instruction has wrought an amazing transformation. Mr. Estella illustrated it by a group of students.

"Igorrotes!" he said, indicating three young women.

With the gesture he swept the classroom into the rugged fastnesses of the Mountain Province. The ghastly canao circle drew itself before my gaze. It was night. A blazing fire within the circle lit up weirdly the gory human head impaled on a stake in the centre, the pantomimes of the hero head-hunter enacting his bloody exploit to the beating of the gansas and the ululating war cry of men squatting about the fire. The fire light flickered over moving figures in the background—bare-breasted women with tattooed arms and streaming hair. Across the twenty-two years of American occupation I saw the mothers of girls such as these trim, white-frocked young women who are here being taught the gentlest of arts—nursing!

Stars and Stripes

The rosy colors of hope run at the least dampening.

Happiness blossoms in the heart, but has its roots in the mind.

The more liberties we take the less liberty remains for ourselves and others.

It is impossible to take our inferiors into our confidence, for when we attempt to do so we lose our superiority.

Every year added to a man's life is but another taken away.

A gift is something cheapest bought and often dearest paid for.

The man who is in constant fear of death belittles the very life he hates to lose.

Pride is the most ambitious of vices. It seeks not only to hide our faults but to act as substitute for many virtues.
